U. N. CALLS FOR INDONESIAN PEACE

Gen. Arnold Reversed Hughes Contract Decision After Talk With FDR's Son, Probers Told

Brewster Offers To Waive Privileges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — Senators probing Howard Hughes' ability to get warplane contracts heard testimony today that Elliott Roosevelt's recommendaions overrode the commanding general of the Air Forces, and then started quizzing Publicity Man John Meyer on his relations with the son of the late President.

Meyer, sleepy-eyed after a hurried flight here from France, did not get very far on his story of his work for Hughes before the hearing was suddenly recessed until tomorrow.

He did get in a denial that he had padded his expense accounts to show lavish entertainment of government officials. He replied, "right" when asked whether it was "your duty to entertain Army officers, Navy officers and others?"

The many-sided inquiry of the Senate War Investigating Committee also turned up an offer by its chairman, Sen. Brewster (R-Maine), to waive his senatorial rights and appear as a witness on what he said was "a blackmail charge" fired at him by Hughes.

Meyer testified briefly at the end of a day which produced an account by Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Echols of how the recommendation of Elliott Roosevelt brought Hughes, Hollywood millionaire, a $22,000,000 contract for photo reconnaissance, planes.

Echols, former assistant chief of the air staff, said the contract went to Hughes after Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Air Forces during the war, directed on August 24, 1943, that no further action be taken to encourage Hughes in development of a photographic plane.

Echols, now retired, told the committee that a week later Arnold reversed his decision after talking to Elliott and issued verbal instructions to Echols that "steps should be taken to contract with Hughes" for 100 planes.

The committee received a copy of a technical order covering these 100 planes which noted that they were to be produced "following a recommendation from Col. Roosevelt to Gen. Arnold."

Echols said he assumed that Wright Field air authorities wanted to show by this notation that they advised against the project and were overruled.

Also into the record went an Army Air Forces memorandum dated March 31, 1945, saying there was "pressure brought to bear from very high places" in connection with award of the contract.

Hughes To Ask Brewster Probe

Brewster, chairman of the War Investigating Committee, made his offer to waive senatorial privileges after Hughes announced in Los Angeles that he will ask the Justice Department to investigate "the relationship of Sen. Brewster with Pan American Airways."

This was a reference to Hughes' statement earlier this week that the Maine Senator had offered to call off the current investigation if Hughes would merge his Trans World Airline with Pan American.

"I will welcome the most thorough exploration of this charge by the Attorney General in justice to all

"DEAD" BABY STARTS TO BREATH AGAIN ON FUNERAL PARLOR TABLE

BECKELEY, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—A two-pound baby boy presumed to be dead when taken from a hospital here suddenly gasped for breath on a table in a funeral parlor several minutes later and was back in an incubator tonight, continuing an almost hopeless fight for life.

Douglas Bryant, an embalmer for the Rose Funeral Home, said he was called to the hospital about 1 p. m. today to get the body of the day-old infant and prepare it for burial after nurses reportedly had informed doctors it had ceased breathing and was turning cold.

The embalmer continued that he and an assistant had placed the body on a preparation table in the funeral parlor and had started to press on its chest when the baby, born prematurely at six months, gasped for breath and began to cry.

Negro Is Killed At Scene Of Rape Of White Woman

Shot When He Grabs For Patrolman's Gun

PRENTISS, Miss., Aug. 1. (AP)—A negro was shot to death at the scene of the rape of a white woman today after a crowd had given the sheriff a deadline for obtaining a confession from the prisoner.

Virginia Hartzog, sheriff's clerk, said that Versie Johnson was killed when he grabbed for a state highway patrolman's gun.

She said a "crowd" gathered at the jail shortly after the negro was arrested and "gave the sheriff until 8 o'clock tonight to get a confession."

Sheriff G. O. Berry, State Highway Patrolman J. S. Puckett and a patrolman named Hopkins took the negro to the scene of the crime, she said.

"He was telling them how it happened," she said, "and got up behind Patrolman Puckett and grabbed him around the waist and tried to get his gun." One of the trio of officers shot the negro, she said.

She said the attack on the white woman occurred about 9 a. m.

The white woman, an expectant mother, begged the negro not to molest her, she said, and offered him all the money she had in the house. After the attack, she said, the negro took the money from the house and fled.

Wheat Planting Goal Is Upped

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—The government today called upon farmers for another bumper wheat crop next year to help meet overseas shortages until mid-1949.

It thus abandoned plans for retrenching on a war-expanded acreage in areas subject to dust storms.

It set a wheat planting goal of 75,000,000 acres for wheat to be harvested in 1948. This is 12 per cent greater than the goal for this year and nearly 50 per cent more than average planted in years before the war.

The Agriculture Department, which announced the goal, had planned several weeks ago to ask farmers to cut next year's acreage from the 77,000,000 seeded for this year's crop to about 68,000,000 acres. The department was prompted by a desire to retire overworked wheat land subject to soil erosion.

But prospects that shortage areas abroad will continue to need large quantities of American grain and the outlook for a relatively poor corn crop this year led the department to announce a larger goal.

VA Begins Whittling Its Hospital Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—The Veterans Administration began whittling down its hospital construction program today, but Administrator Omar Bradley promised "we shall not trim costs at the expense of patient care."

Bradley wrote assistant and deputy administrators that "runaway construction costs have outdistanced even the generous congressional appropriations" of $772,702,845 for hospital construction.

Army engineers, he added, have been ordered to reduce 'as far as possible" non-essential hospital space in the structures still under design "but we shall not save space at the expense of medical treatment." The Army engineers build the hospitals for the VA.

Sales Tax Referendum Petitions Tossed Out

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 1. (AP)—Secretary of State Bertram L. Boone, formally declined today to certify petitions with over 25,000 signatures for a referendum on the state's two per cent sales tax act.

Boone took the step on the advice of Attorney General Hall Hammond, who, in an opinion submitted to Gov. Lane, previously had ruled the sales tax law was a "revenue measure." Such acts are not referable under the state constitution.

In a letter to Samuel J. Fisher, counsel for the Maryland Economic Council, Boone said the Attorney General had ruled the petitions were "entirely ineffective and should be disregarded."

Strong Southern Backing For Taft Is Expected

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 1 (AP) — Friends of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said today they are counting on a big block of southern delegates to support the Ohioan in the 1948 national convention if he decides to make the race for the presidential nomination as home state Republicans have urged him to do.

As Taft motored toward his family retreat on Canada's Murray Bay for a five weeks' vacation before undertaking a western speaking tour in September to sound out his prospects for the nomination and election, some of his out-of-state supporters said he could have strong southern support for the asking.

GM Increases Auto Prices 2 To 6 Per Cent

UAW Statement Says Hikes "Unjustified"

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP) — General Motors Corporation today increased the price of all passenger cars and Chevrolet trucks by two to six percent.

A statement from the office of Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, described the price boost as "another large stride down the inflationary road leading to depression and mass unemployment." It added:

"Were the company genuinely concerned in cooperating in the national effort to halt inflation, it could well afford to offer price reductions several times as large as the price increases which it has now inflicted on the consumer."

Reuther himself was in Washington for a "Meet the Press" radio program tonight.

No Comment From Ford

The rest of the auto industry eyed the increases narrowly but without immediate comment.

The Ford Motor Company, GM's chief competitor in the low price field, had no official comment.

However, a spokesman recalled a statement by Henry Ford II a fortnight ago when he said the firm "hoped" to absorb rising steel costs without marking up the price tags on its cars.

Chrysler Corporation, the other member of the automotive "Big Three," also made no comment.

But the industry expressed open interest in General Motors' move, not entirely unexpected in view of the conviction in automotive circles that rising steel prices eventually would be reflected in autos.

Buicks Up $60 to $139

President C. E. Wilson, in announcing the boost by General Motors, said specific increases by models and body styles were to be announced individually by Cadillac, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet divisions.

Cadillac raised the price of its models from $66 to $168, Buick from $60 to $139.

Chevrolet trucks were also blanketed with passenger cars under the increase, but GMC trucks were not affected, since price increases ranging from $17 to $162 were set for them earlier in the week.

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP) — An eleventh-hour effort to head off a threatened strike of 107,000 Ford Motor Company production workers ended today with no reported progress toward a settlement of the dispute.

Officials of the CIO United Auto Workers said they turned down a four-point proposal advanced Thursday by Henry Ford II to CIO President Philip Murray. The conditional offer proposed waiving certain of the company's rights under the Taft-Hartley Act in return for what Ford called "good faith conditions" from the union.

Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO vice president and national Ford director, announced the union's rejection after a two-hour bargaining session.

Truman Relaxes At "Shangri La"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—(AP)—President Truman relaxed tonight at "Shangri-La", the old Roosevelt retreat in the Catoctin Mountains.

He drove to the rural spot, about 65 miles northwest of Washington near Thurmont, Md., this afternoon with Rear Adm. James H. Foskett, his naval aide, and Capt. Charles L. (Larry) Freeman, skipper of the presidential yacht Williamsburg.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said Mr. Truman plans a restful weekend hiking, swimming and loafing. This was his first opportunity for a rest since he returned from Missouri where his mother died last week.

The Chief Executive took along a number of the 78 bills remaining from upwards of 200 sent to him in the closing days of Congress. Ross said he will consider them over the weekend. The President plans to return to Washington Monday.

EXECUTED BRITISH SOLDIERS—This picture of the bodies of Sgts. Clifford Martin (left) and Mervyn Paice was taken by AP Photographer James Pringle just prior to the explosion of a bobby trap that mutilated the bodies of the two British soldiers. The two men were kidnaped and hanged from eucalyptus trees near Natanya, Palestine, by members of the Jewish underground.

One Jew Slain, 33 Wounded In Holy Land Disorders

Death Toll For Last Half Of July Is 24

JERUSALEM, Aug. 1—(AP)—Britons and Jews clashed in angry reprisal and counter reprisal today in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem and unofficial sources tonight numbered the day's casualties at one dead and 33 wounded—all Jews.

An unofficial report said several rounds of shots were fired at the Jerusalem security zone gate near the Jewish Agency offices late tonight, setting off general alarm sirens throughout the Holy City for the second time in 24 hours. The gate is near the Goldsmith Club, blasted by a terrorist bomb March 1, which still houses a number of troops.

Shooting In German Colony

Later reports said there also was shooting in the German colony, where live most British officials who are restricted to specified security zones. It was not learned whether there were any casualties.

Today's incidents in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem raised the casualty list for the last half of July in Palestine to 24 killed and 144 wounded. Fifteen of the dead were police or army personnel, two were Jewish attackers and seven were civilians. The wounded included 79 security force personnel and 65 Jewish civilians.

The official report of arrests following today's attack in Jerusalem said eight suspects were detained and one attacker arrested.

Funeral Procession Clash

The day's bloody events, all reverberating from the execution by the British of three Jewish underground members and the revenge hanging by the underground of two British sergeants, began with a terrorist attack on the Jerusalem headquarters of the Royal Hampshire Regiment. One Jew was slain and two others captured.

A short time later, in Tel Aviv, an armored car which a private source said was manned by British police, crashed headlong into a crowd of 5,000 persons in a funeral procession for the five Jews killed in last night's violence.

The crowd scattered in panic as three separate bursts of gunfire were heard and at least 15 jews were wounded by glass from breaking shop windows. Others suffered gunshot wounds.

Can Have Discharges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—(AP)—The War Department said today that any recruits who enlisted since last Friday without knowing that they would get no benefits under the GI Bill of Rights may have immediate discharges if they want them.

VET, IN SUIT, CHARGES ARMY SURGEON LEFT TOWEL IN STOMACH

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — A war veteran who charged an Army surgeon left a hand towel in his stomach after an abdominal operation filed suit today in federal court for $100,000 damages from the government.

Arthur K. Jefferson, Joppa, Md., said after an operation at Fort Belvoir Hospital, Va., July 3, 1945 he suffered "intense pain, jaundice and nausea."

Jefferson's suit alleged a towel marked "United States medical department" was removed from his stomach in a second operation.

The veteran said he was discharged January 9, 1946, and since then has been unable to eat or digest his food properly.

Atom Grab War Signal, Report Says

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 1 (AP)—The seizure by any nation of atomic stockpiles and facilities always will be a signal of war, United Nations atomic energy delegates declared today in a preview of their second report.

"The seizure (by any nation or group of nations) of stockpiles, production facilities and facilities utilizing nuclear fuel will always be a danger of such magnitude," the delegates said, "that seizure should be recognized by all nations to mean that a most serious violation of the treaty has taken place and that the nation is about to embark on atomic warfare."

The views of the delegates, acting thus far in their individual capacities, were contained in a series of six papers made public by the Political Committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

Russia Takes No Part

Soviet Russia took no part in drawing up these papers and frequently criticized the work on them by the delegates. Poland participated slightly.

United Nations observers said that unless Russia and Poland changed their attitude, the Atomic Commission would turn in its second report in September by a 10 to 0 vote, with Russia and Poland abstaining. That was the lineup on the first report made to the United Nations Security Council last December 31.

The papers, concerned mainly with the powers and functions of a proposed international control agency, made these important points:

1. Nations or persons should not own atomic source material, nuclear fuel and dangerous facilities. These must be held by the agency in trust, without the power to sell them.

2. National research and development activities should be limited only so far as is necessary for security.

Must Attract Top Scientists

3. The atomic control agency, which must keep abreast of the latest developments in the atomic field, must attract a sufficient number of scientists and engineers of high class.

4. The agency must seek out any clandestine activities or facilities involving nuclear fuel.

5. An atomic treaty should embody the principle that comparable national deposits of atomic-bearing ores throughout the world should be used up proportionately so that one nation would not gain an advantage.

6. The agency's powers of inspection, by plane and other means, should be wide but should have some limits.

Indonesians Will Prepare Capital For Final Stand

Dutch Drive Seen If Tjilatjap Falls

BATAVIA, Java., Aug. 1 (AP) —The Indonesians Supreme Command declared the Republican capital of Jogjakarta and surrounding districts a military area today and ordered it prepared for a last ditch stand in the event of a Dutch attack, radio Jogjakarta announced.

The broadcast said Lt. Gen. Oerip Soemoahardjo had been ordered to direct defense preparations.

The Indonesian action reflected fears expressed earlier in some Republican quarters that the loss of Republican-held Tjilatjap on Java's south coast— toward which Dutch mechanized columns were reported rolling steadily tonight—would presage a drive on the capital. The Indonesians said two Dutch fighter planes attacked the Jogjakarta airfield today.

An Indonesian communique said the Dutch had been repulsed at a point less than 10 miles from the South Java coast in the area of Banjoemas, which lies east and north of Tjilatjap, the last Republican port of importance in Java.

Latest Dutch reports said the Netherlandsf orces werew ithin 20 miles of Tjilatjap, which is 75 miles west of Jogjakarta. The Dutch said they had occupied Poerwaredja, 14 miles east of Pierworkerto, and 60 miles northwest of Jogjakarta.

Republican sources in the Indonesian capital commented that the coastal terrain between Tjilatjap and Jogjakarta was much more favorable for Dutch motorized advances than the more mountainous areas between the capital and the north coast where the Indonesians say they have held the Dutch at bay for a week.

The Dutch said large areas of Tjilatjap were aflame as a result of the Indonesian scorched earth policy and added that a billowing column of black smoke indicated oil tanks were afire.

Wherry Announces Probe Into Gasoline Shortage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — An inquiry into the gasoline and oil shortage was announced today by Chairman Wherry (R-Neb), of the Senate Small Business Committee.

His statement said the committee will be concerned only with the effect on small, independent dealers who have expressed alarm in letters to the committee.

"These independent dealers," Wherry reported, "say that unless there is a change in the trend of the quantity of supplies presently being allocated to them, they will lose their business and, in many instances, their life savings."

He set the first hearings for August 21 and 22 in Chicago and said others will be held in Nebraska, Montana, Texas and California.

Unprecedented Decision Made By Council, 8-0

Question Of Dutch Compliance Arises

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 1. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council tonight called upon the Dutch and Indonesians to cease fighting immediately and settle their disputes by arbitration or other peaceful means.

The unprecedented decision was reached after only two days of debate and marked the first time in United Nations history that the peace agency moved directly to stop warfare.

The vote was 8 to 0 with Belgium, France and Britain abstaining. Britain stressed that its abstention should not be construed as a veto.

Alexandre Parodi, of France, said he would have preferred to vote against the resolution, but abstained because his veto would have killed it.

Paris El Khoury, of Syria, council chairman, immediately instructed the United Nation staff to communicate the council's decisions to the governments of the Netherlands and the Republic of Indonesia.

Council Adjourns Until Monday

The council adjourned at 8:15 p. m. (EDT) until Monday at 3 p. m. (EDT).

In the final stages of a five-hour session, delegates rejected a Russian amendment which directed that Dutch and Indonesian troops should be withdrawn to positions they held at the start of military operations as a step toward the peaceful settlement. The vote here was 2 to 0 with only Poland supporting the Soviet Union and the other nine members abstaining.

Passage of the resolution, sponsored by the United States and amended by the French and Poles, also served to give Security Council recognition to the Republic of Indonesia. This point had been hotly contested by the Netherlands, which contended that Indonesia was not yet an independent state. In an adjoining chamber, the Economic and Social Council also voted recognition to the Republic by inviting it to a trade and employment conference in Havana next November.

The question immediately arose whether the Netherlands would chose to comply with the council decision.

U. S. Offers "Good Offices"

Dr. Eelco N. Van Kleffens, Dutch ambassador, told the council in the midst of the speedy discussions that his government would accept an invitation to end hostilities but would oppose any order from the council. The Dutch consistently held that the council had not power to give any orders in the Indonesian case.

He said his government hoped hostilities would cease at the earliest possible moment. "More I am not authorized to say at this time," he added.

Van Kleffens spoke after hearing several strong attacks on his government's action, including a Russian statement that the Netherlands was "waging an open war against the Indonesians." Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, expressing disappointment at the contents of Van Kleffen's new instructions, renewed his demands that the council take binding action. Earlier he labeled a United States offer of its "good offices" as a "means of circumventing" the United Nations.

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, of China, charged that the Dutch were acting as an "overlord" and wanted to place Indonesia in the role of a "vassal state."

Sailor Who Ran Amuck, Slew Nine, Found Hanged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—A 21-year-old sailor awaiting court-martial on charges of running amuck and killing nine shipmates as they lay sleeping was found hanged today in his cell at the Anacostia Naval Receiving Station.

He was William V. Smith, seaman 2-c of Asheville, N. C. Officers said his body was suspended by a noose fashioned from strips of mattress cover.

The sailor had been under observation from time to time since April 23, 1946, when the Navy said he staged an early-morning assault with carbine, pistol and knife on 30 sleeping sailors aboard the LST-172. The ship was in the Yangtze River near Shanghai.

Air Force Breaks Speed Records, Stages Show On 40th Anniversary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Air Force celebrated its fortieth anniversary today by shattering speed records and putting on a show as world-wide as its war effort.

In Moscow, Tokyo, Berlin, Santiago, Paris, Nanking and a dozen other foreign capitals as well as most cities in this country the occasion was noted.

The Air Force, shrunk from its wartime 2,500,000 men to 310,000 but flying faster and farther now, took to the air with demonstrations of speed, skill, distance and just mass formations.

On the ground it opened installations to the public for shows and demonstrations. Officials spoke at luncheons and dinners and over the radio to call attention to plans for continued development of America's air might.

One of the most spectacular flights was that of seven B-29 Superfortresses from Tokyo to Washington. They made the 7,000-mile trip with a single-three-hour stop for refueling at Anchorage, Alaska, in about 30 hours' flying time.

P-80 Shooting Stars zipped into Washington from New York, Chicago and Miami, setting unofficial records with average speeds of near 500 miles an hour.

A single B-29, the famous "Dream Boat," marked up an official international record for a 10,000-kilometer (6,214 miles) closed course with an average speed of 277 miles an hour, beating the previous mark of 193.6 miles an hour set by the French in 1939.

A group of B-29s flew over Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City and St. Louis in one of the larger flight demonstrations.

Couple Celebrates Anniversary By Hitting $7,440 Radio Jackpot

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—A Glen Rock, N. J., couple celebrated their 41st wedding anniversary tonight by winning $7,440 on the American Broadcasting Company's "Break the Bank" quiz program.

It was said to be the greatest cash prize ever given on such a program.

The winners, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Fowler, both school teachers, answered without faltering the eight questions posed by Master of Ceremonies Bert Parks on famous people noted for accomplishments achieved after they became 75 years old.

The studio audience roared with joy as the couple replied "Oliver Wendell Holmes" to the final jackpot question: "Who was the author of 'Over the Teacups'?"

Asked what they planned to do with the money, Mrs. Fowler replied:

"We have a small home that needs repairs and we're going to help this sick home as well as some sick people."

The award is handled on a cumulative basis, growing from week to week if contestants fail to win the jackpot. Tonight's prize had been accumulating since May 16.

The next highest total to tonight's record prize was $5,790 won by an ex-Army Air Corps pilot and his wife.

Gen. Arnold Reversed Hughes Contract Decision After Talk With FDR's Son, Probers Told

Meyer testified briefly at the end of a day which produced an account by Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Echols of how the recommendation of Elliott Roosevelt brought Hughes, Hollywood millionaire, a $22,000,000 contract for photo reconnaissance planes.

Echols, former assistant chief of the air staff, said the contract went to Hughes after Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Air Forces during the war, directed on August 24, 1943, that no further action be taken to encourage Hughes in development of a photographic plane.

BECKELEY, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—A two-pound baby boy presumed to be dead when taken from a hospital here suddenly gasped for breath on a table in a funeral parlor several minutes later and was back in an incubator tonight, continuing an almost hopeless fight for life.

Douglas Bryant, an embalmer for the Rose Funeral Home, said he was called to the hospital about 1 p. m. today to get the body of the day-old infant and prepare it for burial after nurses reportedly had informed doctors it had ceased breathing and was turning cold.

The embalmer continued that he and an assistant had placed the body on a preparation table in the funeral parlor and had started to press on its chest when the baby, born prematurely at six months, gasped for breath and began to cry.

Negro Is Killed At Scene Of Rape Of White Woman

Shot When He Grabs For Patrolman's Gun

PRENTISS, Miss., Aug. 1. (AP)—A negro was shot to death at the scene of the rape of a white woman today after a crowd had given the sheriff a deadline for obtaining a confession from the prisoner.

Virginia Hartzog, sheriff's clerk, said that Versie Johnson was killed when he grabbed for a state highway patrolman's gun.

She said a "crowd" gathered at the jail shortly after the negro was arrested and "gave the sheriff until 8 o'clock tonight to get a confession."

Sheriff G. O. Berry, State Highway Patrolman J. S. Puckett and a patrolman named Hopkins took the negro to the scene of the crime, she said.

"He was telling them how it happened," she said, "and got up behind Patrolman Puckett and grabbed him around the waist and tried to get his gun." One of the trio of officers shot the negro, she said.

She said the attack on the white woman occurred about 9 a. m.

The white woman, an expectant mother, begged the negro not to molest her, she said, and offered him all the money she had in the house. After the attack, she said, the negro took the money from the house and fled.

VA Begins Whittling Its Hospital Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—The Veterans Administration began whittling down its hospital construction program today, but Administrator Omar Bradley promised "we shall not trim costs at the expense of patient care."

Bradley wrote assistant and deputy administrators that "runaway construction costs have outdistanced even the generous congressional appropriations" of $772,702,845 for hospital construction.

Army engineers, he added, have been ordered to reduce 'as far as possible" non-essential hospital space in the structures still under design "but we shall not save space at the expense of medical treatment." The Army engineers build the hospitals for the VA.

Sales Tax Referendum Petitions Tossed Out

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 1. (AP)—Secretary of State Bertram L. Boone, formally declined today to certify petitions with over 25,000 signatures for a referendum on the state's two per cent sales tax act.

Boone took the step on the advice of Attorney General Hall Hammond, who, in an opinion submitted to Gov. Lane, previously had ruled the sales tax law was a "revenue measure." Such acts are not referable under the state constitution.

In a letter to Samuel J. Fisher, counsel for the Maryland Economic Council, Boone said the Attorney General had ruled the petitions were "entirely ineffective and should be disregarded."

GM Increases Auto Prices 2 To 6 Per Cent

UAW Statement Says Hikes "Unjustified"

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP) — General Motors Corporation today increased the price of all passenger cars and Chevrolet trucks by two to six percent.

A statement from the office of Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, described the price boost as "another large stride down the inflationary road leading to depression and mass unemployment." It added:

"Were the company genuinely concerned in cooperating in the national effort to halt inflation, it could well afford to offer price reductions several times as large as the price increases which it has now inflicted on the consumer."

Reuther himself was in Washington for a "Meet the Press" radio program tonight.

No Comment From Ford

The rest of the auto industry eyed the increases narrowly but without immediate comment.

The Ford Motor Company, GM's chief competitor in the low price field, had no official comment.

However, a spokesman recalled a statement by Henry Ford II a fortnight ago when he said the firm "hoped" to absorb rising steel costs without marking up the price tags on its cars.

Chrysler Corporation, the other member of the automotive "Big Three," also made no comment.

But the industry expressed open interest in General Motors' move, not entirely unexpected in view of the conviction in automotive circles that rising steel prices eventually would be reflected in autos.

Buicks Up $69 to $139

President C. E. Wilson, in announcing the boost by General Motors, said specific increases by models and body styles were to be announced individually by Cadillac, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet divisions.

Cadillac raised the price of its models from $66 to $168, Buick from $60 to $139.

Chevrolet trucks were also blanketed with passenger cars under the increase, but GMC trucks were not affected, since price increases ranging from $17 to $162 were set for them earlier in the week.

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP) — An eleventh-hour effort to head off a threatened strike of 107,000 Ford Motor Company production workers ended today with no reported progress toward a settlement of the dispute.

Officials of the CIO United Auto Workers said they turned down a four-point proposal advanced Thursday by Henry Ford II to CIO President Philip Murray. The conditional offer proposed waiving certain of the company's rights under the Taft-Hartley Act in return for what Ford called "good faith conditions" from the union.

Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO vice president and national Ford director, announced the union's rejection after a two-hour bargaining session.

Truman Relaxes At "Shangri La"

He drove to the rural spot, about 65 miles northwest of Washington near Thurmont, Md., this afternoon with Rear Adm. James H. Foskett, his naval aide, and Capt. Charles L. (Larry) Freeman, skipper of the presidential yacht Williamsburg.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said Mr. Truman plans a restful weekend hiking, swimming and loafing. This was his first opportunity for a rest since he returned from Missouri where his mother died last week.

The Chief Executive took along a number of the 78 bills remaining from upwards of 200 sent to him in the closing days of Congress. Ross said he will consider them over the weekend. The President plans to return to Washington Monday.

EXECUTED BRITISH SOLDIERS—This picture of the bodies of Sgts. Clifford Martin (left) and Mervyn Paice was taken by AP Photographer James Pringle just prior to the explosion of a bobby trap that mutilated the bodies of the two British soldiers. The two men were kidnaped and hanged from eucalyptus trees near Natanya, Palestine, by members of the Jewish underground.

One Jew Slain, 33 Wounded In Holy Land Disorders

Death Toll For Last Half Of July Is 24

JERUSALEM, Aug. 1—(AP)—Britons and Jews clashed in angry reprisal and counter reprisal today in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem and unofficial sources tonight numbered the day's casualties at one dead and 33 wounded—all Jews.

An unofficial report said several rounds of shots were fired at the Jerusalem security zone gate near the Jewish Agency offices late tonight, setting off general alarm sirens throughout the Holy City for the second time in 24 hours. The gate is near the Goldsmith Club, blasted by a terrorist bomb March 1, which still houses a number of troops.

Shooting In German Colony

Later reports said there also was shooting in the German colony, where live most British officials who are restricted to specified security zones. It was not learned whether there were any casualties.

Today's incidents in Tel Aviv and Jerusalem raised the casualty list for the last half of July in Palestine to 24 killed and 144 wounded. Fifteen of the dead were police or army personnel, two were Jewish attackers and seven were civilians. The wounded included 79 security force personnel and 65 Jewish civilians.

The official report of arrests following today's attack in Jerusalem said eight suspects were detained and one attacker arrested.

Funeral Procession Clash

The day's bloody events, all reverberating from the execution by the British of three Jewish underground members and the revenge hanging by the underground of two British sergeants, began with a terrorist attack on the Jerusalem headquarters of the Royal Hampshire Regiment. One Jew was slain and two others captured.

A short time later, in Tel Aviv, an armored car which a private source said was manned by British police, crashed headlong into a crowd of 5,000 persons in a funeral procession for the five Jews killed in last night's violence.

The crowd scattered in panic as three separate bursts of gunfire were heard and at least 15 jews were wounded by glass from breaking shop windows. Others suffered gunshot wounds.

Can Have Discharges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—(AP)—The War Department said today that any recruits who enlisted since last Friday without knowing that they would get no benefits under the GI Bill of Rights may have immediate discharges if they want them.

VET, IN SUIT, CHARGES ARMY SURGEON LEFT TOWEL IN STOMACH

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — A war veteran who charged an Army surgeon left a hand towel in his stomach after an abdominal operation filed suit today in federal court for $100,000 damages from the government.

Arthur K. Jefferson, Joppa, Md., said after an operation at Fort Belvoir Hospital, Va., July 3, 1945 he suffered "intense pain, jaundice and nausea."

Jefferson's suit alleged a towel marked "United States medical department" was removed from his stomach in a second operation.

The veteran said he was discharged January 9, 1946, and since then has been unable to eat or digest his food properly.

Atom Grab War Signal, Report Says

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 1 (AP)—The seizure by any nation of atomic stockpiles and facilities always will be a signal of war, United Nations atomic energy delegates declared today in a preview of their second report.

"The seizure (by any nation or group of nations) of stockpiles, production facilities and facilities utilizing nuclear fuel will always be a danger of such magnitude," the delegates said, "that seizure should be recognized by all nations to mean that a most serious violation of the treaty has taken place and that the nation is about to embark on atomic warfare."

The views of the delegates, acting thus far in their individual capacities, were contained in a series of six papers made public by the Political Committee of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

Russia Takes No Part

Soviet Russia took no part in drawing up these papers and frequently criticized the work on them by the delegates. Poland participated slightly.

United Nations observers said that unless Russia and Poland changed their attitude, the Atomic Commission would turn in its second report in September by a 10 to 0 vote, with Russia and Poland abstaining. That was the lineup on the first report made to the United Nations Security Council last December 31.

The papers, concerned mainly with the powers and functions of a proposed international control agency, made these important points:

1. Nations or persons should not own atomic source material, nuclear fuel and dangerous facilities. These must be held by the agency in trust, without the power to sell them.

2. National research and development activities should be limited only so far as is necessary for security.

Must Attract Top Scientists

3. The atomic control agency, which must keep abreast of the latest developments in the atomic field, must attract a sufficient number of scientists and engineers of high class.

4. The agency must seek out any clandestine activities or facilities involving nuclear fuel.

5. An atomic treaty should embody the principle that comparable national deposits of atomic-bearing ores throughout the world should be used up proportionately so that one nation would not gain an advantage.

6. The agency's powers of inspection, by plane and other means, should be wide but should have some limits.

Unprecedented Decision Made By Council, 8-0

Question Of Dutch Compliance Arises

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 1. (AP)—The United Nations Security Council tonight called upon the Dutch and Indonesians to cease fighting immediately and settle their disputes by arbitration or other peaceful means.

The unprecedented decision was reached after only two days of debate and marked the first time in United Nations history that the peace agency moved directly to stop warfare.

The vote was 8 to 0 with Belgium, France and Britain abstaining. Britain stressed that its abstention should not be construed as a veto.

Alexandre Parodi, of France, said he would have preferred to vote against the resolution, but abstained because his veto would have killed it.

Paris El Khoury, of Syria, council chairman, immediately instructed the United Nation staff to communicate the council's decisions to the governments of the Netherlands and the Republic of Indonesia.

Council Adjourns Until Monday

The council adjourned at 8:15 p. m. (EDT) until Monday at 3 p. m. (EDT).

In the final stages of a five-hour session, delegates rejected a Russian amendment which directed that Dutch and Indonesian troops should be withdrawn to positions they held at the start of military operations as a step toward the peaceful settlement. The vote here was 2 to 0 with only Poland supporting the Soviet Union and the other nine members abstaining.

Passage of the resolution, sponsored by the United States and amended by the French and Poles, also served to give Security Council recognition to the Republic of Indonesia. This point had been hotly contested by the Netherlands, which contended that Indonesia was not yet an independent state. In an adjoining chamber, the Economic and Social Council also voted recognition to the Republic by inviting it to a trade and employment conference in Havana next November.

The question immediately arose whether the Netherlands would chose to comply with the council decision.

U. S. Offers "Good Offices"

Dr. Eelco N. Van Kleffens, Dutch ambassador, told the council in the midst of the speedy discussions that his government would accept an invitation to end hostilities but would oppose any order from the council. The Dutch consistently held that the council had not power to give any orders in the Indonesian case.

He said his government hoped hostilities would cease at the earliest possible moment. "More I am not authorized to say at this time," he added.

Van Kleffens spoke after hearing several strong attacks on his government's action, including a Russian statement that the Netherlands was "waging an open war against the Indonesians." Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, expressing disappointment at the contents of Van Kleffen's new instructions, renewed his demands that the council take binding action. Earlier he labeled a United States offer of its "good offices" as a "means of circumventing" the United Nations.

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, of China, charged that the Dutch were acting as an "overlord" and wanted to place Indonesia in the role of a "vassal state."

Indonesians Will Prepare Capital For Final Stand

Dutch Drive Seen If Tjilatjap Falls

BATAVIA, Java., Aug. 1 (AP) —The Indonesians Supreme Command declared the Republican capital of Jogjakarta and surrounding districts a military area today and ordered it prepared for a last ditch stand in the event of a Dutch attack, radio Jogjakarta announced.

The broadcast said Lt. Gen. Oerip Soemoahardjo had been ordered to direct defense preparations.

The Indonesian action reflected fears expressed earlier in some Republican quarters that the loss of Republican-held Tjilatjap on Java's south coast— toward which Dutch mechanized columns were reported rolling steadily tonight—would presage a drive on the capital. The Indonesians said two Dutch fighter planes attacked the Jogjakarta airfield today.

An Indonesian communique said the Dutch had been repulsed at a point less than 10 miles from the South Java coast in the area of Banjoemas, which lies east and north of Tjilatjap, the last Republican port of importance in Java.

Latest Dutch reports said the Netherlandsf orces werew ithin 20 miles of Tjilatjap, which is 75 miles west of Jogjakarta. The Dutch said they had occupied Poerwaredja, 14 miles east of Pierworkerto, and 60 miles northwest of Jogjakarta.

Republican sources in the Indonesian capital commented that the coastal terrain between Tjilatjap and Jogjakarta was much more favorable for Dutch motorized advances than the more mountainous areas between the capital and the north coast where the Indonesians say they have held the Dutch at bay for a week.

The Dutch said large areas of Tjilatjap were aflame as a result of the Indonesian scorched earth policy and added that a billowing column of black smoke indicated oil tanks were afire.

Wherry Announces Probe Into Gasoline Shortage

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — An inquiry into the gasoline and oil shortage was announced today by Chairman Wherry (R-Neb), of the Senate Small Business Committee.

His statement said the committee will be concerned only with the effect on small, independent dealers who have expressed alarm in letters to the committee.

"These independent dealers," Wherry reported, "say that unless there is a change in the trend of the quantity of supplies presently being allocated to them, they will lose their business and, in many instances, their life savings."

He set the first hearings for August 21 and 22 in Chicago and said others will be held in Nebraska, Montana, Texas and California.

Sailor Who Ran Amuck, Slew Nine, Found Hanged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—A 21-year-old sailor awaiting court-martial on charges of running amuck and killing nine shipmates as they lay sleeping was found hanged today in his cell at the Anacostia Naval Receiving Station.

He was William V. Smith, seaman 2-c of Asheville, N. C. Officers said his body was suspended by a noose fashioned from strips of mattress cover.

The sailor had been under observation from time to time since April 23, 1946, when the Navy said he staged an early-morning assault with carbine, pistol and knife on 30 sleeping sailors aboard the LST-172. The ship was in the Yangtze River near Shanghai.

Air Force Breaks Speed Records, Stages Show On 40th Anniversary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Air Force celebrated its fortieth anniversary today by shattering speed records and putting on a show as world-wide as its war effort.

In Moscow, Tokyo, Berlin, Santiago, Paris, Nanking and a dozen other foreign capitals as well as most cities in this country the occasion was noted.

The Air Force, shrunk from its wartime 2,500,000 men to 310,000 but flying faster and farther now, took to the air with demonstrations of speed, skill, distance and just mass formations.

On the ground it opened installations to the public for shows and demonstrations. Officials spoke at luncheons and dinners and over the radio to call attention to plans for continued development of America's air might.

One of the most spectacular flights was that of seven B-29 Superfortresses from Tokyo to Washington. They made the 7,000-mile trip with a single-three-hour stop for refueling at Anchorage, Alaska, in about 30 hours' flying time.

P-80 Shooting Stars zipped into Washington from New York, Chicago and Miami, setting unofficial records with average speeds of near 500 miles an hour.

A single B-29, the famous "Dream Boat," marked up an official international record for a 10,000-kilometer (6,214 miles) closed course with an average speed of 277 miles an hour, beating the previous mark of 193.6 miles an hour set by the French in 1939.

A group of B-29s flew over Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, Indianapolis, Kansas City and St. Louis in one of the larger flight demonstrations.

Couple Celebrates Anniversary By Hitting $7,440 Radio Jackpot

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—A Glen Rock, N. J., couple celebrated their 41st wedding anniversary tonight by winning $7,440 on the American Broadcasting Company's "Break the Bank" quiz program.

It was said to be the greatest cash prize ever given on such a program.

The winners, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Fowler, both school teachers, answered without faltering the eight questions posed by Master of Ceremonies Bert Parks on famous people noted for accomplishments achieved after they became 75 years old.

The studio audience roared with joy as the couple replied "Oliver Wendell Holmes" to the final jackpot question: "Who was the author of 'Over the Teacups'?"

Asked what they planned to do with the money, Mrs. Fowler replied:

"We have a small home that needs repairs and we're going to help this sick home as well as some sick people."

The award is handled on a cumulative basis, growing from week to week if contestants fail to win the jackpot. Tonight's prize had been accumulating since May 16.

The next highest total to tonight's record prize was $5,790 won by an ex-Army Air Corps pilot and his wife.

Foremen Challenge Labor Act In Suit Against NLRB

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Foremen's Association of America filed suit against the National Labor Relations Board today challenging the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The foremen's union, with headquarters in Detroit, specifically attacked the provision which relieves employers of the obligation to bargain collectively with unions of supervisory employes. It contends this is discriminatory.

The suit asks the Federal District Court here to stop the NLRB from dismissing the union's petitions under authority of the act.

The complaint says the NLRB already has rejected petitions of the union for collective bargaining recognition even though most provisions of the new law do not take effect until August 22.

The union asked the court to declare the entire act unconstitutional, as well as the provisions dealing with supervisory workers and other sections which it attacked.

It contends that the law discriminates against workers, that it is "avowedly" in the interests of employers.

In addition to the section depriving foremen's unions of bargaining recognition, the complaint specifically attacks three other provisions as unconstitutional:

Authority for the government to obtain injunctions to delay strikes affecting public health and safety;

The curbs on jurisdictional strikes (walkouts arising from one union's rivalry with another); and

The ban on certain political expenditures by unions.

450 Bottles Of Choice Liquor Go Down Drain

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1. (AP)—Exactly 450 bottles of choice wine, cognac, champagne and Scotch went down the drain today. Customs agents counted them—a little mournfully.

The rear courtyard of the Customs House was steeped in a fine aroma as an ax-wielding agent carried out the legal decree that drinking liquor seized for want of duty payments must be destroyed.

He put each bottle in a burlap sack and let go with the ax. A small, tragic crowd stood by silently.

Most of the bottles were tokens sent home by servicemen overseas during the war. They tried to sneak the liquor through the mails without paying any duty.

European Crisis May Outrun Plan To Supply Help

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — American officials now fear the economic crisis in Europe will develop so rapidly that the need for new American help may outrun the Marshall plan's ability to supply it.

The financial difficulties of Britain are only a part, although the major part, of the conditions which are causing serious concern here.

Reports have been reaching officials for some time that the French and Italians, whose political futures are more directly involved because of their domestic Communist parties, may need additional help before the year-end.

One bright spot is that not all help need be of an outright financial nature. For instance, some relief is afforded foreign nations wherever ships are transferred for their direct operation and their dollar drain to meet shipping costs in American vessels is eased.

In the main, however, the administration faces the next few months before Congress reconvenes without resources for meeting most of the expected critical needs of Europe.

Secretary of State Marshall's proposal, made in a speech at Harvard University, was that the countries of Europe get together and determine what Europe as a whole needs for recovery, how much of it the European nations could supply themselves, and then what they would have to ask from the United States.

Officials feel that at least they must give Europeans co-operating in the Marshall plan every possible indication of American interest, goodwill and support until the United States does swing into action.

For this reason diplomatic authorities believe the qualified endorsement Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) gave to the plan in his Columbus, Ohio, speech last night may be a source of encouragement to Europeans.

Because of Taft's position of leadership in the Senate, the indication that he will work with Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) in support of what he considers a "reasonable" program of foreign assistance may be welcomed abroad.

Michigan Hangs Up New Swimming Mark

TYLER, Tex., Aug. 1. (AP)—The University of Michigan 300-meter medley relay team splashed to a new national record today by doing the distance in 3:16.6 in preliminaries of the National A. A. U. outdoor swimming meet.

It was more than four seconds faster than Ohio State's team swam last year in setting the national mark at 3:20.7. It also will be recognized as a world's record. This is the first year the medley relay has been admitted to world recognition.

Michigan's showing featured trials of the meet which has drawn 184 entries, the largest in history for the outdoor championships.

Banks Advised To Use Care In Cashing GI Bonds

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Treasury officials advised Maryland banks today that former servicemen desiring to cash their terminal leave bonds September 2 and thereafter should be required to produce their discharge papers.

Where the original discharge document is not available, the Treasury warned, "exceptional care should be exercised to see that the right person is getting the cash".

The bonds were issued in payment for furlough time which enlisted personnel were not able to take during the war. Congress just before it adjourned authorized the bond holders to cash their securities after September 1.

Fatal Jail Fight Case Shunted To Grand Jury

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 1 (AP) — The death of a man who was arrested for drunken driving and involved in a fight at Wicomico County jail last Saturday night was shunted directly to the grand jury for investigation today when two officers charged with manslaughter waived preliminary hearing.

Attorneys for John J. Harbaugh, 29-year-old Maryland state trooper, and John W. Turner, 62-year-old one-armed jailer, said they thought no purpose would be served by a preliminary hearing for their clients on the manslaughter charges.

They expressed a belief that the grand jury scheduled to convene September 8 would make a complete investigation into the death of Milton H. Jones, 31-year-old automobile dealer and truck line operator.

concerned," Brewster said in a statement.

He added that after Hughes has testified before the committee, "I shall be most happy to waive all committee and senatorial privileges and appear before the committee as a plain American citizen under oath."

Brewster added that "if there were a word of truth in the charges now being made" by Hughes "they should have been presented to the Attorney General last February at the time of the alleged proposal."

The Maine lawmaker said "one does not wait six months where a blackmail charge is involved."

Foremen Challenge Labor Act In Suit Against NLRB

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Foremen's Association of America filed suit against the National Labor Relations Board today challenging the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The foremen's union, with headquarters in Detroit, specifically attacked the provision which relieves employers of the obligation to bargain collectively with unions of supervisory employes. It contends this is discriminatory.

The suit asks the Federal District Court here to stop the NLRB from dismissing the union's petitions under authority of the act.

The complaint says the NLRB already has rejected petitions of the union for collective bargaining recognition even though most provisions of the new law do not take effect until August 22.

The union asked the court to declare the entire act unconstitutional, as well as the provisions dealing with supervisory workers and other sections which it attacked.

It contends that the law discriminates against workers, that it is "avowedly" in the interests of employers.

In addition to the section depriving foremen's unions of bargaining recognition, the complaint specifically attacks three other provisions as unconstitutional:

Authority for the government to obtain injunctions to delay strikes affecting public health and safety;

The curbs on jurisdictional strikes (walkouts arising from one union's rivalry with another); and

The ban on certain political expenditures by unions.

450 Bottles Of Choice Liquor Go Down Drain

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1. (AP)—Exactly 450 bottles of choice wine, cognac, champagne and Scotch went down the drain today. Customs agents counted them—a little mournfully.

The rear courtyard of the Customs House was steeped in a fine aroma as an ax-wielding agent carried out the legal decree that drinking liquor seized for want of duty payments must be destroyed.

He put each bottle in a burlap sack and let go with the ax. A small, tragic crowd stood by silently.

Most of the bottles were tokens sent home by servicemen overseas during the war. They tried to sneak the liquor through the mails without paying any duty.

European Crisis May Outrun Plan To Supply Help

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — American officials now fear the economic crisis in Europe will develop so rapidly that the need for new American help may outrun the Marshall plan's ability to supply it.

The financial difficulties of Britain are only a part, although the major part, of the conditions which are causing serious concern here.

Reports have been reaching officials for some time that the French and Italians, whose political futures are more directly involved because of their domestic Communist parties, may need additional help before the year-end.

One bright spot is that not all help need be of an outright financial nature. For instance, some relief is afforded foreign nations wherever ships are transferred for their direct operation and their dollar drain to meet shipping costs in American vessels is eased.

In the main, however, the administration faces the next few months before Congress reconvenes without resources for meeting most of the expected critical needs of Europe.

Secretary of State Marshall's proposal, made in a speech at Harvard University, was that the countries of Europe get together and determine what Europe as a whole needs for recovery, how much of it the European nations could supply themselves, and then what they would have to ask from the United States.

Officials feel that at least they must give Europeans co-operating in the Marshall plan every possible indication of American interest, goodwill and support until the United States does swing into action.

For this reason diplomatic authorities believe the qualified endorsement Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) gave to the plan in his Columbus, Ohio, speech last night may be a source of encouragement to Europeans.

Because of Taft's position of leadership in the Senate, the indication that he will work with Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) in support of what he considers a "reasonable" program of foreign assistance may be welcomed abroad.

Michigan Hangs Up New Swimming Mark

TYLER, Tex., Aug. 1. (AP)—The University of Michigan 300-meter medley relay team splashed to a new national record today by doing the distance in 3:16.6 in preliminaries of the National A. A. U. outdoor swimming meet.

It was more than four seconds faster than Ohio State's team swam last year in setting the national mark at 3:20.7. It also will be recognized as a world's record. This is the first year the medley relay has been admitted to world recognition.

Michigan's showing featured trials of the meet which has drawn 184 entries, the largest in history for the outdoor championships.

Banks Advised To Use Care In Cashing GI Bonds

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Treasury officials advised Maryland banks today that former servicemen desiring to cash their terminal leave bonds September 2 and thereafter should be required to produce their discharge papers.

Where the original discharge document is not available, the Treasury warned, "exceptional care should be exercised to see that the right person is getting the cash".

The bonds were issued in payment for furlough time which enlisted personnel were not able to take during the war. Congress just before it adjourned authorized the bond holders to cash their securities after September 1.

Fatal Jail Fight Case Shunted To Grand Jury

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 1 (AP) — The death of a man who was arrested for drunken driving and involved in a fight at Wicomico County jail last Saturday night was shunted directly to the grand jury for investigation today when two officers charged with manslaughter waived preliminary hearing.

Attorneys for John J. Harbaugh, 29-year-old Maryland state trooper, and John W. Turner, 62-year-old one-armed jailer, said they thought no purpose would be served by a preliminary hearing for their clients on the manslaughter charges.

They expressed a belief that the grand jury scheduled to convene September 8 would make a complete investigation into the death of Milton H. Jones, 31-year-old automobile dealer and truck line operator.

concerned," Brewster said in a statement.

He added that after Hughes has testified before the committee, "I shall be most happy to waive all committee and senatorial privileges and appear before the committee as a plain American citizen under oath."

Brewster added that "if there were a word of truth in the charges now being made" by Hughes "they should have been presented to the Attorney General last February at the time of the alleged proposal."

The Maine lawmaker said "one does not wait six months where a blackmail charge is involved."

Light Criticizes Playground "Vandalism"

It seems the people of Cumberland would rather wreck the city's playgrounds, than help keep them up, Street Commissioner Myers G. Light, said yesterday in commenting on wilful destructions that have occurred at the recreation centers recently.

Light said "persons have deliberately broken beyond repair" a merry-go-round at one of the playgrounds; a six-inch iron pole used for a merry-go-round has been bent "almost double" and toilets have been damaged.

"If the children and citizens would learn to respect the property, which is really their own, we would have something. The city does not have money to keep on repairing old equipment and buying new at the same time," the commissioner asserted.

Biller Is Improving

Ronald Biller, 40, Route 3, Valley Road, who was badly injured in an alteraction in Ridgeley, W. Va., July 13, is reported improving in Memorial Hospital.

Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell, Ridgeley, said last night he had been advised that Biller is now able to be "up and around" and that he soon will be able to leave the hospital. He added he would confer with county authorities in connection with the charge of malicious assault placed against Gerald Barbe, 303 Avirett Avenue. Action has been deferred while Biller is hospitalized.

According to ancient myth, cotton bolls once were lambs which reached down and grazed until the stalks grew too high, and then starved until their bodies turned to fleece.

Lightning Sets Barn Afire; Loss Is $11,500

A barn owned by Wilbur Cessna, Beans Cove, Pa., was destroyed by fire after it was struck by lightning Wednesday during an electrical storm that caused severe damage in some sections of the tri state area.

The barn, which was described as being very large, caught fire and loss was estimated at $11,500 with no insurance, according to Harry Wilson, president of the Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company.

A large truck, along with hay and grain crops were in the barn and destroyed by the fire. Several hogs and smaller farm machinery were also destroyed.

Electrncal and telephone service throughout the area was disrupted, but officials said yesterday damaged equipment had been repaired and service restored to normal.

Probe On Displaced Persons Problem And Immigration

There are nearly two score investigations scheduled during Congress' recess. Among them is one which will deal with immigration and the displaced persons problem. It will be conducted by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

We hope it will be thorough and come out with an answer because nothing could be more important.

Ugo Carusi, head of the Federal Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, said a few days ago, "The system is good but it doesn't work." He was referring especially to the case of Lady Iris Mountbatten, the mint-gum and rubber-check visitor who was finally "discovered" and ordered deported. But only, as Mr. Carusi put it, "when an alien does something she shouldn't and it comes to our attention, we begin to check up on our records."

The key to the senatorial investigation should be "the good system that doesn't work." This country is full of alien visitors, here on permits which are unchecked and unpoliced. Many of the visitors are fine people. But many are racketeers, tax avoiders or evaders, or those who just live by their wits.

Under the law, permits can be renewed after six months. But only on application and sufficient proof. That is, theoretically, as the system now operates. As in the Iris Mountbatten incident, the Bureau of Immigration is alerted only when something wrong shows up conspiciously. But not until

The reason, says Mr. Carusi, is that he has only 185 agents to check up on thousands of permit holders. Maybe so. But what about shifting the burden of proof to the visitor—with a penalty? Why should not he or she be compelled to report when the permit is about to expire? Why not, under some such penalty as is imposed on a citizen of our country when an income-tax payer fails to file on time?

Such a policy might save us from having to expand vastly our immigration inspection department in order to check up on our visitors.

Certain it is that proper and sufficient screening will have to be set up before any favorable action ever is taken on letting in several hundred thousand displaced persons. For letting them in—under proper screening and follow-up—there probably are good reasons, humanitarian and economic, if it can be done without detriment to American citizens.

If that proposed New York-to-the-Pacific coast subway proposal ever becomes a fact the squabble over the five-cent fare will no doubt, become a national controversy.

Cumberland's Bombardment From Sky Tame In Comparison

The late returns on the Summer's hail storms are still coming in. People marveled in the Spring at hailstones the size of chicken eggs—now there are reports from various sections that some fell as large as baseballs. These conditions were not confined to far distant places, but occurred on the outskirts of Cumberland. Mt. Savage had one the other day, but another which went unnoticed except to those who happened in the vicinity of McLuckie's, on the National Highway, was heavy enough to cover the ground with the frozen droplets. The stones were not as large as hen fruit, but were, we are told, of size great enough to do damage to vegetation. So the bombardment from the sky was tame in comparison to those in other areas.

Elsewhere in the country, reports of damage caused vary, including partial or complete destruction of crops, killing of chickens which lacked the agility to make henhouses, killing cattle, almost complete destruction of buildings.

But the United States Weather Bureau at Washington says the country really has seen nothing, comparatively speaking.

The Bureau says that in Pitter, Nebraska, on June 6, 1928, hailstones measuring 17 inches in circumference and weighing one and one-half pounds hurtled out of the sky. And on June 15, 1829, a town in Spain was litterally crushed beneath a downpour of hailstones that weighed as much as five pounds each.

Hail always falls in hot weather, the weatherman says, and is no kin to sleet which in wintertime is ice from the sky. They never fall together. As a thunderstorm rumbles along the heavens looking for somebody to rain on, sometimes a small but powerful updraft occurs on its leading edge.

The greater the heat and moisture of the lower air, the more powerful this updraft is. It usually covers no more than 15,000 to 20,000 feet of the storm's front, as hot, expanding lower air rushes toward the cooler regions aloft.

Sweeping upward, the rising air on the edge of the storm whooshes through the strata of storm clouds, carrying droplets of moisture to an altitude above 7,000 feet. On earth's hottest days the air is often below freezing temperatures from 7,000 to 10,000 feet up.

When the droplets freeze, their heat of fusion warms the air about them slightly. This creates a disturbance within the rushing pillar of air and frozen droplets, small hailstones now, "fall off" and tumble earthward. But before they reach the ground the small hailstones are likely to be sucked into the updraft again and again, boosted to high altitude. On each ascent they gather another layer of moisture which freezes, increasing their size.

Well, it seems larger hailstones again begin their downward tumble, only to be swept once more into the swift currents of the updraft and flung skyward, accumulating another layer of ice around a tiny nucleus.

When the chunks of ice became so heavy, after several hours, that the updraft cannot lift them back into the freezing zone, they finally fall to earth.

The size of the hailstones that finally rattle on roofs depends on the velocity of the updraft that forms them. An upward draft of 50 to 75 miles an hour is required to support hailstones one inch in diameter. A four-inch hailstone requires an upward sweep of air traveling in excess of 450 miles an hour. So it goes.

REAL AND SUSPECTED RINGWORM OF THE FOOT

THE handicaps associated with treating ringworm of the feet were discussed recently in this column. It was stated that the medical profession was not satisfied with the medications on hand and since recurrences are common, a specific cure was obviously lacking. As a result of these remarks we received a barrage of letters suggesting numerous remedies.

The majority of patients can be helped by whatever the physician prescribes. The remainder are the troublemakers because, for any one of a number of reasons, they are not benefited. Some become discouraged when a day or two passes and a miracle does not occur. Had they persisted in following the doctor's orders, recovery probably would have ensued. But instead, they make the rounds trying this and that until relieved. As a result, the last substance used is given credit and often proclaimed a "wonder drug."

Another group did not have ringworm to begin with but the condition was suspected because of the presence of lesions between the toes. In some instances, self-diagnosis was made; others sought medical advice but the scaly parts were not examined under the microscope before recommending treatment. Ointments or salves were applied or the feet soaked in antiseptic solutions. Because the sufferer became overzealous in trying to eradicate the infection, the original invaders are supplanted by a drug rash. A vicious circle follows; the more preparations that are used, the worse the dermatitis becomes. In the circumstances, it would be better if all forms of therapy are discontinued, or a harmless, nonirritating ointment is applied.

I often wonder how many persons with "incurable" ringworm have had laboratory tests to see if the condition actually exists. There is no doubt, however, that a certain number are afflicted with a stubborn form of the disease. The fungus may not be entirely to blame, however, because occasionally extreme sensitivity to the organisms produces what is tantamount to an allergy reaction. Another possibility in apparently persistent cases is reinfection.

All these factors will explain, to a great extent, why physicians hesitate to say that an absolute cure exists. They are too well acquainted with the variations and are merely being honest in admitting the situation. But all too often the patient decides that the doctor does not know his business. Furthermore, he is competing with the manufacturers of patent medicines who make numerous claims but assume none of the responsibility.

Research is continuing, however, and since our last article a new fungicide has been described which sound encouraging. Bereston treated 340 patients exhibiting various types of fungous infections with a 100 per cent pure concentrated propylene glycol diproprionate. Complete relief followed in 93 to 97 per cent of the acute and subacute cases; only 8 per cent of those who had been afflicted for a long time were helped. Vapors made from this material also were effective and may prove useful as a preventive measure.

BENUMBED

L. G. writes: Occasionally one of my hands goes to sleep while driving a car. Is this a forerunner of anything?

REPLY

Not necessarily, as the manifestation may occur if the arm is held in a strained position. Another possibility is resting the elbow against the side of the door so that the nerve is pressed upon. In rare instances, the symptom indicates a circulatory or blood disorder.

NOT AS A RULE

S. D. writes: Does the new drug for thyroid trouble need to be administered in a hospital?

REPLY

Not necessarily but the patient must be checked by the physician at frequent intervals. Unless this is possible, hospitalization may be indicated.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I sent this item to Bob Ripley and he sent it back. You may not believe this either, but here in California folks going on vacation in the summer leave their pets at a hotel. It's a sort of weekend at the Waldorf with fleas.

I first learned of it when an old lady rushed up to me in great excitement and screamed "I've got my Spitz at the Ritz." I don't know what a pet hotel is like but I can just imagine. There are probably small Murphy beds for Irish Terriers with the bedpost made out of solid bone for them to gnaw on.

The house detective is a bulldog who takes his job seriously. I can just hear him calling on the house phone to the tomcat in room 203 and saying "Get that canary out of there."

This service is really great, but they don't have bellhops. When the pets call room service the order is promptly brought up by a Saint Bernard with a keg around his neck —probably iced dog biscuit.

One dog named Fifi left the motel in a huff. It seemed the manager's little boy kept coming up in her room and chewing up her leash.

They don't take just any old dog into the motel. First they have to show their pedigree and put their paw print on the register. They are very strict but I really think they went a bit too far when they threw that innocent little chihuahua out of the motel because he had no luggage.

Can you imagine Fido having any breakfast in bed? The next time anyone tells you he's going to the dogs—congratulate him.

Cowboy Senator Will Ride Horseback From Coast To Coast; Congressmen Are Refused Free Airplane Ride; Ku Klux Klan Makes Secret Plans For Georgia

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho, a former cowboy vaudeville crooner, who has come to win the respect of his Senatorial colleagues, will take an unusual trip this summer.

While some Senators will be junketing to Alaska or touring Europe, Taylor will ride horseback from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast.

The Senator from Idaho candidly admits that it is a publicity stunt, but not for Taylor, for peace. Along the way, Taylor plans to speak for the United Nations and world cooperation. He has just helped introduce a bill to strengthen the United Nations and help eliminate the veto power by which one nation can hold up the peace efforts of the rest of the world. Taylor feels that the Middle West is becoming isolationist, is worried over the threat of war, and wants to dramatize the problem of peace.

The Idaho Senator has planned to buy two horses in California and begin his trek east from the Golden Gate Bridge, San Francisco. One horse will follow behind on a trailer, while he rides the other, alternating each day. Taylor says he plans to ride horseback every inch of the way, even including western deserts and the Rocky Mountains. He figures the trip will take him three months.

Airplane Junket Vetoed

While Senator Brewster's battle between Pan American Airways and Howard Hughes' Trans World Airline held the headlines on Capitol Hill, some interesting wire-pulling was attempted down on Pennsylvania Avenue. It illustrates how determined Pan American Airways is to put across its policy of "one company" to operate overseas air routes.

What happened was that twelve Congressmen were planning to fly overseas, largely at the instance of Pan American Airways, to "study" the one-idea. However, for once in the history of government, the Civil Aeronautics Board put its foot down, ruled that the Congressmen would have to pay their own way. This came as a rude shock, and the junket is now off.

The request for a free ride came from GOP Congressman Charles Wolverton of New Jersey, able chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Under CAB rules, the airlines cannot carry passengers free without special permission of the CAB, so Wolverton wrote asking that permission.

The Committee, incidentally, had held up its vote on the one-company idea until members could take this overseas trip inspired by Pan American Airways. And when the CAB turned thumbs down, Pan American was so eager to put the junket across that Pan Am officials suggested a trip on airplane credit cards, by which the Congressmen would travel on credit until Congress could appropriate the money next January.

However, this struck a snag when Alfred Bulwinkle, North Carolina Democrat, and William J. Miller, Connecticut Republican, flatly refused to make the trip unless Congress appropriated the money or they paid for it personally.

Note—The Pan Am officials who did the dickering were smart Sam Pryor, Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut, and Bill McAvoy, Pan American publicity genius. Pan American, with a longtime monopoly in Latin America, has wanted Howard Hughes' Trans World Airline to cooperate in the "one company" idea for overseas routes. Hughes claims that his refusal to go along is the reason he is being probed.

KKK Rides Again

Despite the Georgia court order officially dissolving the charter of the Ku Klux Klan, here are the minutes of a recent meeting of the Nathan Bedford Forrest KKK Klavern No. 1, held at 198-½ Whitehall Street, Atlanta:

Approximately 90 Klansmen attended. The Klokan committee approved 31 new applications for membership. Copies of the Georgia Tribune were distributed to all entering the Klavern, and Grand Dragon Dr. Samuel Green talked about the fine work of the editor, Parson Jack Johnston, who was active in the Klan in 1928 and will be the Exalted Cyclops of the New Klavern to be set up in Columbus, Ga.

Grand Dragon Green spoke at length about the articles in the Georgia Tribune in which Parson Jack accused city, county and state officials of fraud in their prosecution of the pro-Nazi Columbians.

Plans also were discussed for a public demonstration and cross-burning on Missionary Ridge at Rossville, Ga. It was explained that Klansmen dressed in robes would be on each highway leading into the town to show all Klansmen to the initiation spot. Three cars leaving Atlanta were to be driven by Jimmie Helms of the Atlanta Police, Klansman Pulliam, and Dr. Green.

Dr. Green urged all Klansmen who have cars to take as many Klansmen as possible who have robes. It was apparent from the plans to direct traffic that the Grand Dragon had the full and complete cooperation of the city police. It was also announced that on August 2, a watermelon cutting would be held in Grand Park with all Klansmen invited to come. Dr. Eubanks, a dentist in the Candler Building, closed the meeting with a five-minute talk on Klancraft.

Note—The Baptist Minister, Parson Jack Johnston, editor of the Georgia Tribune, is not a member of the Southern Baptist Convention, has frequently attacked Rev. Louis Newton, president of the Convention.

Dewey's Silence On National Problems Somewhat Justified

By MARK SULLIVAN

The putting forward by Ohio Republicans of Senator Taft for the Republican Presidential nomination is really not modified by Mr. Taft's determination not to decide for some time whether to be a formal candidate. Mr. Taft is a possibility and is one of the two principal ones, the other being Governor Dewey. The picture of the Republican situation is perfectly clear. Rarely have two men been more plainly in the lead and so comparatively equal in apparent strength.

Such situations in the past have sometimes ended in victory by one or the other, sometimes in the two killing each other off, with the nomination going to some third contender. But that is for the future. What is of interest now is these two men and their respective positions. By circumstances and personality they are formidable persons. Their relation to each other and what takes place as between them, is momentous for the country.

Taft Creates Issue Between Them

Senator Taft has created an issue between the two. He says he is going to discuss national questions, will make several formal addresses for that purpose; and he emphasizes that "these matters should be freely discussed throughout the country, particularly by Republicans." That is a challenge to Mr. Dewey. He has refrained from frequent discussion of national issues and implies that he may continue to refrain. He says he has no present plans for making speeches outside New York State. Apparently, if there is to be an intra-Republican Lincoln - Douglas debate it must develop later.

On this point the difference between the two men is partly determined by their respective circumstances. Mr. Dewey has two public positions. He is Governor of the largest state, and he was the Republican candidate for President in 1944. In the latter role Mr. Dewey, if he chose, could take responsibility for party leadership on national and foreign issues. The opportunity that goes with titular party leadership was taken advantage of by Presidential candidates preceding Governor Dewey. Wendell Wilkie, after 1940, and ex-Governor Landon after 1936, repeatedly expressed their views of what party policy should be.

From this, Governor Dewey has abstained, devoting himself to his primary responsibility, which was to the people of the state that had elected him governor. His administration of the state government created public esteem for him and is a reason for much of the following he has throughout the country.

Senator Taft's forthrightness about discussing public questions is determined by both his official position and his personality. When the new Republican Congress took over last January, Mr. Taft was the outstanding leader in the Senate both officially and informally. As such, national questions were his daily meat and drink. He not only took on the responsibilities that accrued to his position but voluntarily took on some that seemed to him necessary. By his own choice he took the chairmanship of the Labor Committee of the Senate, in which the extremely controversial labor legislation would be initially formulated. Senator Taft's rugged forthrightness and candor are such as to make it impossible for him to give thought to prudence or caution about taking responsibility or the frank and forceful expression of views.

Some Justification In Dewey Case

For Governor Dewey not expressing himself frequently on public questions there is, up to the present time, some justification. It was not likely that he, busy as Governor, could have as much familiarity with the public questions under discussion in Congress as Senator Taft and others who were in the midst of the debate. It was quite possible that the Republicans in Congress might not have welcomed any appearance of attempted leadership from outside the body. True they by their own initiative sought the views of ex-President Hoover. But Mr. Hoover had a special status as respects information and in the general regard for him, not merely as a former President but as one having the elevated qualities symbolized in the phrase "elder statesman."

Now, however, Mr. Dewey is a candidate for the Presidential nomination. That is in itself a position entailing responsibility. The responsibility includes equipment for and willingness to discuss the public questions which would confront Mr Dewey if he should become President. One of Mr. Dewey's strong qualities is diligent preparation for the tasks he takes on, and running for the Presidential nomination is a task Mr. Dewey can hardly fail to take notice of demands for public discussion which not only will be continued by Senator Taft but will be made by ex-Governor Stassen and others.

Mask Behind U.N. Maneuvers Of Russia And U. S. Must Soon Fall

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 — Sooner or later the mask behind the United Nations maneuvers of Russia and the United States will be removed and the woirld will discover that nothing in the machinery of the U. N. can stop a series of obstructive vetoes or preserve peace when the world's two strongest governments are not really at peace with one another.

Whatever happens at the U. N. is merely a reflection of the behavior of the Russian and American governments toward each other outside the U. N.

Russia has consistently held, ever since V-J Day, that she is entitled to a major portion of the spoils of war. She signed the United Nations Charter with the distinct understanding that it would not deal with questions of reparations or occupied territories or the peace treaties with former belligerent countries.

Russia has insisted, moreover, that she is entitled to an old-fashioned "sphere of influence" in eastern Europe. She considers the British government's power on the wane in the Near East and herself as the logical heir to that "sphere of influence."

The American government, on the other hand, just as persistently has argued for collective security and the abolition of "spheres of influence."

Russia Pursues Course of Own

Unable to persuade the American government to their viewpoint, the Russians have pusued a course of their own. If the United States and the other powers do not like it, they can go to war about it. This, the Russians believe, will not happen because they think the American people will not sanction a war over whether Russia should expand her orbit of influence in Eastern Europe.

Russia, feeling that she is entitled to the spoils of war and believing that neither Britain nor America will voluntarily give her a free hand in Eastern Europe, has gone ahead to exercise that free hand anyway.

The first challenge to Russia's policy came in the form of the Truman doctrine. This doctrine implied military help for Greece and Turkey or at least enough American dollars to bolster the Greek and Turkish military strength.

In America the doctrine was widely applauded. In Russia it was considered an unfriendly act. Hence, when the Marshall Plan came along, the Russians distrusted it as just an extension of the Truman Doctrine. Everything that has happened since must be judged in the light of a Russian-American conflict of interest.

The crisis over the guerrilla warfare inside Greece is but one incident in a series of reprisals taken by the Russians to thwart the American activities in Europe which the Russians feel are hostile to their expansion.

Whether or not American officials call things by their right names, the fact is the United States and Russia are acting as if they could not settle their disputes by diplomacy and that only by economic coercion or economic aid to western Europe can the Russian expansion program be checkmated.

This is not helping to improve Russian-American relations. It could lead to a war that neither side wants.

Constructive Policy Lacking

Unfortunately, there are few signs that the American government has any constructive policy which could lead to a better understanding with Russia. All the moves seem to be of a nature to irritate and annoy and harass Russia into an alteration of her course. Russia is matching that policy with counter-irritations and annoyances from Korea to the Balkans.

The assumption that Russia is too weak to go to war is like the assumption that Japan would not attack us in 1941—but the Japanese did attack at Pearl Harbor,much to the surprise of nearly every one of our officials.

What is needed, of course, is direct action—direct diplomacy and an exposition of all the facts in the controversy. Just as Japan and America drifted into war through secret diplomacy, so America and Russia may be drifting into war with the facts about the two competing interests in Europe not fully disclosed. It's just possible that the American people might find, on reviewing all the documents, that the American policy had not always been right. It is possible also that, when all the facts are disclosed, a united people would support wholeheartedly and justify the program already adopted. But the public is in the dark at the moment. Maybe if war comes, there'll be another "white paper" telling all the facts when it is too late to do anything about them.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Music in the Hills

I AM NOT a musician nor even a music critic. But I like to go to concerts. Every other Sunday, during the Winter, when I am in New York, I go to Carnegie Hall to listen to the Philharmonic. During the Summer, when I am up in the Berkshires in Massachusetts, I go to Tanglewood three times each week to listen to the Boston Symphony during the Festival.

I do not try to understand music as I do a table of statistics or the politics of Henry Wallace. There are scientists called musicologists who devote themselves to understanding music. With them, it is like mathematics; something with formulae.

I just go to listen. I like Tanglewood most of all because I can see the pine-covered hills and the sky while I listen. I even like it when it rains. Sometimes it is good to listen to music and rain. It is soothing.

This year I shall hear all nine of Beethoven's symphonies, one right after the other in order. That will be a new experience for me, although I have tried it with records. Still, records are not the same as sitting in the big shed in Tanglewood up in the green Berkshires. No records can be like that.

I know that I shall stretch my legs, relax, maybe chew a cigar, and listen. Do I know why Beethoven wrote No. 1 or No. 5 or No. 9? No! And I don't care. It would be the same to me if his name were Smith or Jones. All I want to do is to listen and to be transported to the infinite.

So the musicians spoil it all for me. They play something by Aaron Copland that hits me over the head. To me it is no longer music because I cannot listen. I am pushed. I am kicked around. It has something to do with the Century of the Common Man or the Nazi or Communists or other busy-bodies. It is a factory, a mill, a mine. It is terrific — that is, the noise is terrific.

Then I come the next day and they give me a dose of Stravinsky which sounds in places like a million GI's rubbing dungarees on tin washboards. The rubbing is fearsome. I am told that it all has to do with some kind of ancient Russian springtime ritualistic dance. If that is a Rusian springtime, then those people have never walked down a lane with a pretty girl in the newness of the year. If that is the music they used to dance to, it must have been done with caterpillar tractors.

The critics say this is absolute music, but I am a simple fellow who likes Beethoven, Brahams, Schubert and even Jerome Kern and Gershwin. But do I have to like noise, too? Do I have to go to Tanglewood to hear the Boston Symphony produce the sounds of a newspaper press room? Maybe the critics like the arithmetic of music; as for me, give me beauty of melody, rapture of expression, intensity of feeling. I leave the physics of the celestial orbs to the atomic scientists. Their music is, boom! That's really what Copland and Stravinsky sound like to me — just a lot of boom.

Maybe I ought not to step into the domain of the music critics. They apparently know what it is all about and like it. Or maybe, up at Tanglewood, they ought to have special sessions for critics and musicologists and such experts who can do their calculus while they watch Maestro Koussevitzky or his protege, Leonard Bernstein, belabor their minions through the cacophony called modern music. But for simple folks who just want to listen to beauty, this fare is too heady, like vodka spiked with anisette.

And the question arises: Why must everything modern be so exhibitionistic, so bombastic, so tough on the ear and the soul? Why must it all sound like a lie—like a small boy's lie? Why must even music be so unmannerly, so gross, so grotesque? Youth tells me it is the spirit of the age — two wars with a depression in between. What a spiritless age!

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Interests That Ennobie

The mere pursuit of money has little to it that ennobles. There are interests, however, that do ennoble and inspire, and which mature the heart. Money has no value unless spent, unless put to some purpose, and all too often that purpose return nothing constructive, nothing that gives joy and satisfaction.

On the other hand the artist, the writer, the investigator, the scientist, or the collector of things beautiful, and stimulating to the mind, engages in richness and wealth right from the start. Each loses nothing and gains a profit at once. When the mind and the soul of a person are enriched there is established a relationship with all other people contacted that doubly increases one's own gain.

We place so much stress upon material gains. Thus it is that the essential, and eternal values are shoved aside. Yet these are the only values that mean character and happiness, and which continually ennoble. An abiding love that is kindly and gentle, and which binds itself to its kind, is far more ennobling than to have inherited a thriving city.

That which delights, and which gives satisfaction, is measureless in terms of wealth. It can only be measured in terms of mental and moral emotions. The interests that contribute to a happy heart are beyond all barter and price. Money in the bank is not to be compared to peace in the mind.

It was Stevenson who once wrote that "it is perhaps a more fortunate destiny to have a taste for collecting shells than to be born a millionaire." Certain it is that every interest that we acquire adds to our stock of happiness, and ennobles us just that much more. We cannot have too many useful interests.

To be engaged in enterprises that train the will, teach us patience, and which keep our enthusiasm at a high point or heat is to ennoble our entire nature. Most of the people in this world who complain of their unhappiness merely lack interests to give them zest and hope.

Probe On Displaced Persons Problem And Immigration

There are nearly two score investigations scheduled during Congress' recess. Among them is one which will deal with immigration and the displaced persons problem. It will be conducted by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

We hope it will be thorough and come out with an answer because nothing could be more important.

Ugo Carusi, head of the Federal Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization, said a few days ago, "The system is good but it doesn't work." He was referring especially to the case of Lady Iris Mountbatten, the mint-gum and rubber-check visitor who was finally "discovered" and ordered deported. But only, as Mr. Carusi put it, "when an alien does something she shouldn't and it comes to our attention, we begin to check up on our records."

The key to the senatorial investigation should be "the good system that doesn't work." This country is full of alien visitors, here on permits which are unchecked and unpoliced. Many of the visitors are fine people. But many are racketeers, tax avoiders or evaders, or those who just live by their wits.

Under the law, permits can be renewed after six months. But only on application and sufficient proof. That is, theoretically, as the system now operates. As in the Iris Mountbatten incident, the Bureau of Immigration is alerted only when something wrong shows up conspiciously. But not until

The reason, says Mr. Carusi, is that he has only 185 agents to check up on thousands of permit holders. Maybe so. But what about shifting the burden of proof to the visitor—with a penalty? Why should not he or she be compelled to report when the permit is about to expire? Why not, under some such penalty as is imposed on a citizen of our country when an income-tax payer fails to file on time?

Such a policy might save us from having to expand vastly our immigration inspection department in order to check up on our visitors.

Certain it is that proper and sufficient screening will have to be set up before any favorable action ever is taken on letting in several hundred thousand displaced persons. For letting them in—under proper screening and follow-up—there probably are good reasons, humanitarian and economic, if it can be done without detriment to American citizens.

If that proposed New York-to-the-Pacific coast subway proposal ever becomes a fact the squabble over the five-cent fare will no doubt, become a national controversy.

Cumberland's Bombardment From Sky Tame In Comparison

The late returns on the Summer's hail storms are still coming in. People marveled in the Spring at hailstones the size of chicken eggs—now there are reports from various sections that some fell as large as baseballs. These conditions were not confined to far distant places, but occurred on the outskirts of Cumberland. Mt. Savage had one the other day, but another which went unnoticed except to those who happened in the vicinity of McLuckie's, on the National Highway, was heavy enough to cover the ground with the frozen droplets. The stones were not as large as hen fruit, but were, we are told, of size great enough to do damage to vegetation. So the bombardment from the sky was tame in comparison to those in other areas.

Elsewhere in the country, reports of damage caused vary, including partial or complete destruction of crops, killing of chickens which lacked the agility to make henhouses, killing cattle, almost complete destruction of buildings.

But the United States Weather Bureau at Washington says the country really has seen nothing, comparatively speaking.

The Bureau says that in Pitter, Nebraska, on June 6, 1928, hailstones measuring 17 inches in circumference and weighing one and one-half pounds hurtled out of the sky. And on June 15, 1829, a town in Spain was litterally crushed beneath a downpour of hailstones that weighed as much as five pounds each.

Hail always falls in hot weather, the weatherman says, and is no kin to sleet which in wintertime is ice from the sky. They never fall together. As a thunderstorm rumbles along the heavens looking for somebody to rain on, sometimes a small but powerful updraft occurs on its leading edge.

The greater the heat and moisture of the lower air, the more powerful this updraft is. It usually covers no more than 15,000 to 20,000 feet of the storm's front, as hot, expanding lower air rushes toward the cooler regions aloft.

Sweeping upward, the rising air on the edge of the storm whooshes through the strata of storm clouds, carrying droplets of moisture to an altitude above 7,000 feet. On earth's hottest days the air is often below freezing temperatures from 7,000 to 10,000 feet up.

When the droplets freeze, their heat of fusion warms the air about them slightly. This creates a disturbance within the rushing pillar of air and frozen droplets, small hailstones now, "fall off" and tumble earthward. But before they reach the ground the small hailstones are likely to be sucked into the updraft again and again, boosted to high altitude. On each ascent they gather another layer of moisture which freezes, increasing their size.

Well, it seems larger hailstones again begin their downward tumble, only to be swept once more into the swift currents of the updraft and flung skyward, accumulating another layer of ice around a tiny nucleus.

When the chunks of ice became so heavy, after several hours, that the updraft cannot lift them back into the freezing zone, they finally fall to earth.

The size of the hailstones that finally rattle on roofs depends on the velocity of the updraft that forms them. An upward draft of 50 to 75 miles an hour is required to support hailstones one inch in diameter.. A four-inch hailstone requires an upward sweep of air traveling in excess of 450 miles an hour. So it goes.

A 97-year-old Kentuckian is learning to play the saxophone. Just trying to keep in tune with the times.

We predict those non-sinkable bathing suits may have a tough time gaining popularity. They make the gals look chubby.

It was stated that the medical profession was not satisfied with the medications on hand and since recurrences are common, a specific cure was obviously lacking. As a result of these remarks we received a barrage of letters suggesting numerous remedies.

The majority of patients can be helped by whatever the physician prescribes. The remainder are the troublemakers because, for any one of a number of reasons, they are not benefited. Some become discouraged when a day or two passes and a miracle does not occur. Had they persisted in following the doctor's orders, recovery probably would have ensued. But instead, they make the rounds trying this and that until relieved. As a result, the last substance used is given credit and often proclaimed a "wonder drug."

Another group did not have ringworm to begin with but the condition was suspected because of the presence of lesions between the toes. In some instances, self-diagnosis was made; others sought medical advice but the scaly parts were not examined under the microscope before recommending treatment. Ointments or salves were applied or the feet soaked in antiseptic solutions. Because the sufferer became overzealous in trying to eradicate the infection, the original invaders are supplanted by a drug rash. A vicious circle follows; the more preparations that are used, the worse the dermatitis becomes. In the circumstances, it would be better if all forms of therapy are discontinued, or a harmless, nonirritating ointment is applied.

I often wonder how many persons with "incurable" ringworm have had laboratory tests to see if the condition actually exists. There is no doubt, however, that a certain number are afflicted with a stubborn form of the disease. The fungus may not be entirely to blame, however, because occasionally extreme sensitivity to the organisms produces what is tantamount to an allergy reaction. Another possibility in apparently persistent cases is reinfection.

All these factors will explain, to a great extent, why physicians hesitate to say that an absolute cure exists. They are too well acquainted with the variations and are merely being honest in admitting the situation. But all too often the patient decides that the doctor does not know his business. Furthermore, he is competing with the manufacturers of patent medicines who make numerous claims but assume none of the responsibility.

Research is continuing, however, and since our last article a new fungicide has been described which sound encouraging. Bereston treated 340 patients exhibiting various types of fungous infections with a 100 per cent pure concentrated propylene glycol diproprionate. Complete relief followed in 93 to 97 per cent of the acute and subacute cases; only 8 per cent of those who had been afflicted for a long time were helped. Vapors made from this material also were effective and may prove useful as a preventive measure.

BENUMBED

L. G. writes: Occasionally one of my hands goes to sleep while driving a car. Is this a forerunner of anything?

REPLY

Not necessarily, as the manifestation may occur if the arm is held in a strained position. Another possibility is resting the elbow against the side of the door so that the nerve is pressed upon. In rare instances, the symptom indicates a circulatory or blood disorder.

NOT AS A RULE

S. D. writes: Does the new drug for thyroid trouble need to be administered in a hospital?

REPLY

Not necessarily but the patient must be checked by the physician at frequent intervals. Unless this is possible, hospitalization may be indicated.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I sent this item to Bob Ripley and he sent it back. You may not believe this either, but here in California folks going on vacation in the summer leave their pets at a hotel. It's a sort of weekend at the Waldorf with fleas.

I first learned of it when an old lady rushed up to me in great excitement and screamed "I've got my Spitz at the Ritz." I don't know what a pet hotel is like but I can just imagine. There are probably small Murphy beds for Irish Terriers with the bedpost made out of solid bone for them to gnaw on.

The house detective is a bulldog who takes his job seriously. I can just hear him calling on the house phone to the tomcat in room 203 and saying "Get that canary out of there."

This service is really great, but they don't have bellhops. When the pets call room service the order is promptly brought up by a Saint Bernard with a keg around his neck —probably iced dog biscuit.

One dog named Fifi left the motel in a huff. It seemed the manager's little boy kept coming up in her room and chewing up her leash.

They don't take just any old dog into the motel. First they have to show their pedigree and put their paw print on the register. They are very strict but I really think they went a bit too far when they threw that innocent little chihuahua out of the motel because he had no luggage.

Can you imagine Fido having any breakfast in bed? The next time anyone tells you he's going to the dogs—congratulate him.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho, a former cowboy vaudeville crooner, who has come to win the respect of his Senatorial colleagues, will take an unusual trip this summer.

While some Senators will be junketing to Alaska or touring Europe, Taylor will ride horseback from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast.

The Senator from Idaho candidly admits that it is a publicity stunt, but not for Taylor, for peace. Along the way, Taylor plans to speak for the United Nations and world cooperation. He has just helped introduce a bill to strengthen the United Nations and help eliminate the veto power by which one nation can hold up the peace efforts of the rest of the world. Taylor feels that the Middle West is becoming isolationist, is worried over the threat of war, and wants to dramatize the problem of peace.

The Idaho Senator has planned to buy two horses in California and begin his trek east from the Golden Gate Bridge, San Francisco. One horse will follow behind on a trailer, while he rides the other, alternating each day. Taylor says he plans to ride horseback every inch of the way, even including western deserts and the Rocky Mountains. He figures the trip will take him three months.

Airplane Junket Vetoed

While Senator Brewster's battle between Pan American Airways and Howard Hughes' Trans World Airline held the headlines on Capitol Hill, some interesting wire-pulling was attempted down on Pennsylvania Avenue. It illustrates how determined Pan American Airways is to put across its policy of "one company" to operate overseas air routes.

What happened was that twelve Congressmen were planning to fly overseas, largely at the instance of Pan American Airways, to "study" the one-idea. However, for once in the history of government, the Civil Aeronautics Board put its foot down, ruled that the Congressmen would have to pay their own way. This came as a rude shock, and the junket is now off.

The request for a free ride came from GOP Congressman Charles Wolverton of New Jersey, able chairman of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Under CAB rules, the airlines cannot carry passengers free without special permission of the CAB, so Wolverton wrote asking that permission.

The Committee, incidentally, had held up its vote on the one-company idea until members could take this overseas trip inspired by Pan American Airways. And when the CAB turned thumbs down, Pan American was so eager to put the junket across that Pan Am officials suggested a trip on airplane credit cards, by which the Congressmen would travel on credit until Congress could appropriate the money next January.

However, this struck a snag when Alfred Bulwinkle, North Carolina Democrat, and William J. Miller, Connecticut Republican, flatly refused to make the trip unless Congress appropriated the money or they paid for it personally.

Note—The Pan Am officials who did the dickering were smart Sam Pryor, Republican National Committeeman from Connecticut, and Bill McAvoy, Pan American publicity genius. Pan American, with a longtime monopoly in Latin America, has wanted Howard Hughes' Trans World Airline to cooperate in the "one company" idea for overseas routes. Hughes claims that his refusal to go along is the reason he is being probed.

KKK Rides Again

Despite the Georgia court order officially dissolving the charter of the Ku Klux Klan, here are the minutes of a recent meeting of the Nathan Bedford Forrest KKK Klavern No. 1, held at 198-½ Whitehall Street, Atlanta:

Approximately 90 Klansmen attended. The Klokan committee approved 31 new applications for membership. Copies of the Georgia Tribune were distributed to all entering the Klavern, and Grand Dragon Dr. Samuel Green talked about the fine work of the editor, Parson Jack Johnston, who was active in the Klan in 1928 and will be the Exalted Cyclops of the New Klavern to be set up in Columbus, Ga.

Grand Dragon Green spoke at length about the articles in the Georgia Tribune in which Parson Jack accused city, county and state officials of fraud in their prosecution of the pro-Nazi Columbians.

Plans also were discussed for a public demonstration and cross-burning on Missionary Ridge at Rossville, Ga. It was explained that Klansmen dressed in robes would be on each highway leading into the town to show all Klansmen to the initiation spot. Three cars leaving Atlanta were to be driven by Jimmie Helms of the Atlanta Police, Klansman Pulliam, and Dr. Green.

Dr. Green urged all Klansmen who have cars to take as many Klansmen as possible who have robes. It was apparent from the plans to direct traffic that the Grand Dragon had the full and complete cooperation of the city police. It was also announced that on August 2, a watermelon cutting would be held in Grand Park with all Klansmen invited to come. Dr. Eubanks, a dentist in the Candler Building, closed the meeting with a five-minute talk on Klancraft.

Note—The Baptist Minister, Parson Jack Johnston, editor of the Georgia Tribune, is not a member of the Southern Baptist Convention, has frequently attacked Rev. Louis Newton, president of the Convention.

Dewey's Silence On National Problems Somewhat Justified

By MARK SULLIVAN

The putting forward by Ohio Republicans of Senator Taft for the Republican Presidential nomination is really not modified by Mr. Taft's determination not to decide for some time whether to be a formal candidate. Mr. Taft is a possibility and is one of the two principal ones, the other being Governor Dewey. The picture of the Republican situation is perfectly clear. Rarely have two men been more plainly in the lead and so comparatively equal in apparent strength.

Such situations in the past have sometimes ended in victory by one or the other, sometimes in the two killing each other off, with the nomination going to some third contender. But that is for the future. What is of interest now is these two men and their respective positions. By circumstances and personality they are formidable persons. Their relation to each other and what takes place as between them, is momentous for the country.

Taft Creates Issue Between Them

Senator Taft has created an issue between the two. He says he is going to discuss national questions, will make several formal addresses for that purpose; and he emphasizes that "these matters should be freely discussed throughout the country, particularly by Republicans." That is a challenge to Mr. Dewey. He has refrained from frequent discussion of national issues and implies that he may continue to refrain. He says he has no present plans for making speeches outside New York State. Apparently if there is to be an intra-Republican Lincoln - Douglas debate it must develop later.

On this point the difference between the two men is partly determined by their respective circumstances. Mr. Dewey has two public positions. He is Governor of the largest state, and he was the Republican candidate for President in 1944. In the latter role Mr. Dewey, if he chose, could take responsibility for party leadership on national and foreign issues. The opportunity that goes with titular party leadership was taken advantage of by Presidential candidates preceding Governor Dewey. Wendell Wilkie, after 1940, and ex Governor Landon after 1936, repeatedly expressed their views of what party policy should be.

From this, Governor Dewey has abstained, devoting himself to his primary responsibility, which was to the people of the state that had elected him governor. His administration of the state government created public esteem for him and is a reason for much of the following he has throughout the country.

Senator Taft's forthrightness about discussing public questions is determined by both his official position and his personality. When the new Republican Congress took over last January, Mr. Taft was the outstanding leader in the Senate both officially and informally. As such, national questions were his daily meat and drink. He not only took on the responsibilities that accrued to his position but voluntarily took on some that seemed to him necessary. By his own choice he took the chairmanship of the Labor Committee of the Senate, in which the extremely controversial labor legislation would be initially formulated. Senator Taft's rugged forthrightness and candor are such as to make it impossible for him to give thought to prudence or caution about taking responsibility or the frank and forceful expression of views.

Some Justification In Dewey Case

For Governor Dewey not expressing himself frequently on public questions there is, up to the present time, some justification. It was not likely that he, busy as Governor, could have as much familiarity with the public questions under discussion in Congress as Senator Taft and others who were in the midst of the debate. It was quite possible that the Republicans in Congress might not have welcomed any appearance of attempted leadership from outside the body. True they by their own initiative sought the views of ex-President Hoover. But Mr. Hoover had a special status as respects information and in the general regard for him, not merely as a former President but as one having the elevated qualities symbolized in the phrase "elder statesman."

Now, however, Mr. Dewey is a candidate for the Presidential nomination. That is in itself a position entailing responsibility. The responsibility includes equipment for and willingness to discuss the public questions which would confront Mr Dewey if he should become President. One of Mr. Dewey's strong qualities is diligent preparation for the tasks he takes on, and running for the Presidential nomination is a task. Mr. Dewey can hardly fail to take notice of demands for public discussion which not only will be continued by Senator Taft but will be made by ex-Governor Stassen and others.

Mask Behind U.N. Maneuvers Of Russia And U. S. Must Soon Fall

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 — Sooner or later the mask behind the United Nations maneuvers of Russia and the United States will be removed and the woirld will discover that nothing in the machinery of the U. N. can stop a series of obstructive vetoes or preserve peace when the world's two strongest governments are not really at peace with one another.

Whatever happens at the U. N. is merely a reflection of the behavior of the Russian and American governments toward each other outside the U. N.

Russia has consistently held, ever since V-J Day, that she is entitled to a major portion of the spoils of war. She signed the United Nations Charter with the distinct understanding that it would not deal with questions of reparations or occupied territories or the peace treaties with former belligerent countries.

Russia has insisted, moreover, that she is entitled to an old-fashioned "sphere of influence" in eastern Europe. She considers the British government's power on the wane in the Near East and herself as the logical heir to that "sphere of influence."

The American government, on the other hand, just as persistently has argued for collective security and the abolition of "spheres of influence."

Russia Pursues Course of Own

Unable to persuade the American government to their viewpoint, the Russians have pusued a course of their own. If the United States and the other powers do not like it, they can go to war about it. This, the Russians believe, will not happen because they think the American people will not sanction a war over whether Russia should expand her orbit of influence in Eastern Europe.

Russia, feeling that she is entitled to the spoils of war and believing that neither Britain nor America will voluntarily give her a free hand in Eastern Europe, has gone ahead to exercise that free hand anyway.

The first challenge to Russia's policy came in the form of the Truman doctrine. This doctrine implied military help for Greece and Turkey or at least enough American dollars to bolster the Greek and Turkish military strength.

In America the doctrine was widely applauded. In Russia it was considered an unfriendly act. Hence, when the Marshall Plan came along, the Russians distrusted it as just an extension of the Truman Doctrine. Everything that has happened since must be judged in the light of a Russian-American conflict of interest.

The crisis over the guerrilla warfare inside Greece is but one incident in a series of reprisals taken by the Russians to thwart the American activities in Europe which the Russians feel are hostile to their expansion.

Whether or not American officials call things by their right names, the fact is the United States and Russia are acting as if they could not settle their disputes by diplomacy and that only by economic coercion or economic aid to western Europe can the Russian expansion program be checkmated.

This is not helping to improve Russian-American relations. It could lead to a war that neither side wants.

Constructive Policy Lacking

Unfortunately, there are few signs that the American government has any constructive policy which could lead to a better understanding with Russia. All the moves seem to be of a nature to irritate and annoy and harass Russia into an alteration of her course. Russia is matching that policy with counter-irritations and annoyances from Korea to the Balkans.

The assumption that Russia is too weak to go to war is like the assumption that Japan would not attack us in 1941—but the Japanese did attack at Pearl Harbor,much to the surprise of nearly every one of our officials.

What is needed, of course, is direct action—direct diplomacy and an exposition of all the facts in the controversy. Just as Japan and America drifted into war through secret diplomacy, so America and Russia may be drifting into war with the facts about the two competing interests in Europe not fully disclosed. It's just possible that the American people might find, on reviewing all the documents, that the American policy had not always been right. It is possible also that, when all the facts are disclosed, a united people would support wholeheartedly and justify the program already adopted. But the public is in the dark at the moment. Maybe if war comes, there'll be another "white paper" telling all the facts when it is too late to do anything about them.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Music in the Hills

I AM NOT a musician nor even a music critic. But I like to go to concerts. Every other Sunday, during the Winter, when I am in New York, I go to Carnegie Hall to listen to the Philharmonic. During the Summer, when I am up in the Berkshires in Massachusetts, I go to Tanglewood three times each week to listen to the Boston Symphony during the Festival.

I do not try to understand music as I do a table of statistics or the politics of Henry Wallace. There are scientists called musicologists who devote themselves to understanding music. With them, it is like mathematics; something with formulae.

I just go to listen. I like Tanglewood most of all because I can see the pine-covered hills and the sky while I listen. I even like it when it rains. Sometimes it is good to listen to music and rain. It is soothing.

This year I shall hear all nine of Beethoven's symphonies, one right after the other in order. That will be a new experience for me, although I have tried it with records. Still, records are not the same as sitting in the big shed in Tanglewood up in the green Berkshires. No records can be like that.

I know that I shall stretch my legs, relax, maybe chew a cigar, and listen. Do I know why Beethoven wrote No. 1 or No. 5 or No. 9? No! And I don't care. It would be the same to me if his name were Smith or Jones. All I want to do is to listen and to be transported to the infinite.

So the musicians spoil it all for me. They play something by Aaron Copland that hits me over the head. To me it is no longer music because I cannot listen. I am pushed. I am kicked around. It has something to do with the Century of the Common Man or the Nazi or Communists or other busy-bodies. It is a factory, a mill, a mine. It is terrific — that is, the noise is terrific.

Then I come the next day and they give me a dose of Stravinsky which sounds in places like a million GI's rubbing dungarees on tin washboards. The rubbing is fearsome. I am told that it all has to do with some kind of ancient Russian springtime ritualistic dance. If that is a Rusian springtime, then those people have never walked down a lane with a pretty girl in the newness of the year. If that is the music they used to dance to, it must have been done with caterpillar tractors.

The critics say this is absolute music, but I am a simple fellow who likes Beethoven, Brahams, Schubert and even Jerome Kern and Gershwin. But do I have to like noise, too? Do I have to go to Tanglewood to hear the Boston Symphony produce the sounds of a newspaper press room? Maybe the critics like the arithmetic of music; as for me, give me beauty of melody, rapture of expression, intensity of feeling. I leave the physics of the celestial orbs to the atomic scientists. Their music is, boom! That's really what Copland and Stravinsky sound like to me — just a lot of boom.

Maybe I ought not to step into the domain of the music critics. They apparently know what it is all about and like it. Or maybe, up at Tanglewood, they ought to have special sessions for critics and musicologists and such experts who can do their calculus while they watch Maestro Koussevitzky or his protege, Leonard Bernstein, belabor their minions through the cacophony called modern music. But for simple folks who just want to listen to beauty, this fare is too heady, like vodka spiked with anisette.

And the question arises: Why must everything modern be so exhibitionistic, so bombastic, so tough on the ear and the soul? Why must it all sound like a lie—like a small boy's lie? Why must even music be so unmannerly, so gross, so grotesque? Youth tells me it is the spirit of the age — two wars with a depression in between. What a spiritless age!

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Interests That Ennoble

The mere pursuit of money has little to it that ennobles. There are interests, however, that do ennoble and inspire, and which mature the heart. Money has no value unless spent, unless put to some purpose, and all too often that purpose return nothing constructive, nothing that gives joy and satisfaction.

On the other hand the artist, the writer, the investigator, the scientist, or the collector of things beautiful, and stimulating to the mind, engages in richness and wealth right from the start. Each loses nothing and gains a profit at once. When the mind and the soul of a person are enriched there is established a relationship with all other people contacted that doubly increases one's own gain.

We place so much stress upon material gains. Thus it is that the essential, and eternal values are shoved aside. Yet these are the only values that mean character and happiness, and which continually ennoble. An abiding love that is kindly and gentle, and which binds itself to its kind, is far more ennobling than to have inherited a thriving city.

That which delights, and which gives satisfaction, is measureless in terms of wealth. It can only be measured in terms of mental and moral emotions. The interests that contribute to a happy heart are beyond all barter and price. Money in the bank is not to be compared to peace in the mind.

It was Stevenson who once wrote that "it is perhaps a more fortunate destiny to have a taste for collecting shells than to be born a millionaire." Certain it is that every interest that we acquire adds to our stock of happiness, and ennobles us just that much more. We cannot have too many useful interests.

To be engaged in enterprises that train the will, teach us patience, and which keep our enthusiasm at a high point or heat, is to ennoble our entire nature. Most of the people in this world who complain of their unhappiness merely lack interests to give them zest and hope.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Something Wrong In Girl's Behavior Or Relationship With Parents

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young woman of 23, and recently went out with a group of friends for a boat ride. On the way home I became ill, so one of the other girls insisted on my going to her house for the night.

Unfortunately, I did not call my mother up and tell her, and my mother and dad got very angry about it. The worst of it is they have decided I was out with a man they know very well, who is 55 years old, and they won't believe me when I say I wasn't. I want to prove my story by having the girl with whom I stayed tell my mother I was there. But my mother keeps saying, "Never mind, I know whom you were with." This man told them I wasn't with him, but they won't believe him, either. They even told me to get out of the house.

What shall I do about this? No one at home will even speak to me

"DISGUSTED BLONDE"

Dear "Disgusted Blonde":

There is certainly something very wrong, either in your own general behavior, or in your relationship with your parents—maybe both—if (1) your family suspect you have been doing wrong, and (2) will not take your word for it when you say you have not.

Perhaps your parents are the unduly suspicious kind, but it is hard for me to believe that they would take the attitude they do unless, at some time, you had given them reason to do so.

I think about all you can do now is to make a specially big effort to be on your very best behavior for a long while. As time goes on, and your parents see that you are consistently acting in a way they can approve, and that you are giving them no cause for feeling that you may be acting improperly when out of their sight, I am sure they will come to trust you and depend on your good sense of judgment.

Little Discretion Needed Here

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I met a very nice fellow recently and have seen him about four times since then and have come to like him very much.

One of my girl friends told me I shouldn't go out with him and even told my parents that he is not the one for me. She said he got into trouble some time ago and that the girls in his neighborhood won't go out with him.

Now this fellow has told me all about himself, including that incident that occurred. He also said he likes me a lot. Should I see him again, regardless of what my girl friends say or do?

"BEWILDERED"

Dear "Bewildered":

Since you do not give me any clue whatever as to the trouble this boy got into, I can form no opinion about whether or not he might be the proper companion for you. Your girl friends may be entirely right in warning you that he is not the sort of person with whom you should associate. It seems to me that, whether or not you take seriously whatever the incident may have been, it could not be anything to brush off so lightly if all the girls in his neighborhood are off him on account of it.

I can hardly advise you without information on the subject, but I suggest that you use a little discretion in your relations with this boy.

10 Local Moose Plan To Attend Convention

Ten members of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, including the degree staff, are planning to attend the 59th annual international convention of the fraternity at Columbus, O., August 17-21, according to William G. Beier, governor of the local lodge.

More than 25,000 members are expected to attend the conclave, and Thomas J. Herbert, governor of Ohio and James M. Rhodes, Mayor of Columbus, will officially and publicly welcome the visitors.

Although the convention has been planned to include important business sessions, there will be many social events to provide the throng of visitors with a grand holiday, Beier said. This is the first time a Moose convention has been held in the Ohio city.

Among those who have made reservations from the local lodge are Joseph L. Wolfe, official delegate; Charles E. Pettie, Harry S. Lannon, Edward Roberts, Harry E. Wolfe, Welby Brunk and J. R. Vernall, all members of the degree staff. The degree team will compete in the international competition of degree staffs. The local staff was declared state champions at Baltimore recently.

CITY RATES HIGH IN NET FAMILY INCOME

Cumberland families had more available spending money during the past year than did the average family elsewhere in the United States, according to Sales Management's 1947 survey of buying power.

The figures show that the average Cumberland family had a net income after payment of taxes of $4,958, compared to the average of $3,640 earned by families in other communities in the county, to the $3,086 received per family in the South Atlantic States and to the $4,030 net income of Maryland families.

This income, which totaled $55,530,000 in Cumberland was translated into purchases of $55,133,000 in the local retail stores, a considerable gain over the $40,426,000 in retail business recorded for 1945.

The survey stamps the city a richer market by assigning it a "quality of market index" of 143, meaning that its purchasing power is 43 per cent above that of the average community, regardless of size.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Something Wrong In Girl's Behavior Or Relationship With Parents

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young woman of 23, and recently went out with a group of friends for a boat ride. On the way home I became ill, so one of the other girls insisted on my going to her house for the night.

Unfortunately, I did not call my mother up and tell her, and my mother and dad got very angry about it. The worst of it is they have decided I was out with a man they know very well, who is 55 years old, and they won't believe me when I say I wasn't. I want to prove my story by having the girl with whom I stayed tell my mother I was there. But my mother keeps saying, "Never mind, I know whom you were with." This man told them I wasn't with him, but they won't believe him, either. They even told me to get out of the house.

What shall I do about this? No one at home will even speak to me

"DISGUSTED BLONDE"

Dear "Disgusted Blonde":

There is certainly something very wrong, either in your own general behavior, or in your relationship with your parents—maybe both—if (1) your family suspect you have been doing wrong, and (2) will not take your word for it when you say you have not.

Perhaps your parents are the unduly suspicious kind, but it is hard for me to believe that they would take the attitude they do unless, at some time, you had given them reason to do so.

I think about all you can do now is to make a specially big effort to be on your very best behavior for a long while. As time goes on, and your parents see that you are consistently acting in a way they can approve, and that you are giving them no cause for feeling that you may be acting improperly when out of their sight, I am sure they will come to trust you and depend on your good sense of judgment.

Little Discretion Needed Here

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I met a very nice fellow recently and have seen him about four times since then and have come to like him very much.

One of my girl friends told me I shouldn't go out with him and even told my parents that he is not the one for me. She said he got into trouble some time ago and that the girls in his neighborhood won't go out with him.

Now this fellow has told me all about himself, including that incident that occurred. He also said he likes me a lot. Should I see him again, regardless of what my girl friends say or do?

"BEWILDERED"

Dear "Bewildered":

Since you do not give me any clue whatever as to the trouble this boy got into, I can form no opinion about whether or not he might be the proper companion for you. Your girl friends may be entirely right in warning you that he is not the sort of person with whom you should associate. It seems to me that, whether or not you take seriously whatever the incident may have been, it could not be anything to brush off so lightly if all the girls in his neighborhood are off him on account of it.

I can hardly advise you without information on the subject, but I suggest that you use a little discretion in your relations with this boy.

10 Local Moose Plan To Attend Convention

Ten members of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, including the degree staff, are planning to attend the 59th annual international convention of the fraternity at Columbus, O., August 17-21, according to William G. Beier, governor of the local lodge.

More than 25,000 members are expected to attend the conclave, and Thomas J. Herbert, governor of Ohio and James M. Rhodes, Mayor of Columbus, will officially and publicly welcome the visitors.

Although the convention has been planned to include important business sessions, there will be many social events to provide the throng of visitors with a grand holiday, Beier said. This is the first time a Moose convention has been held in the Ohio city.

Among those who have made reservations from the local lodge are Joseph L. Wolfe, official delegate; Charles E. Pettie, Harry S. Lannon, Edward Roberts, Harry E. Wolfe, Welby Brunk and J. R. Vernall, all members of the degree staff. The degree team will compete in the international competition of degree staffs. The local staff was declared state champions at Baltimore recently.

CITY RATES HIGH IN NET FAMILY INCOME

Cumberland families had more available spending money during the past year than did the average family elsewhere in the United States, according to Sales Management's 1947 survey of buying power.

The figures show that the average Cumberland family had a net income after payment of taxes of $4,958, compared to the average of $3,640 earned by families in other communities in the county, to the $3,086 received per family in the South Atlantic States and to the $4,030 net income of Maryland families.

This income, which totaled $55,530,000 in Cumberland was translated into purchases of $55,133,000 in the local retail stores, a considerable gain over the $40,426,000 in retail business recorded for 1945.

The survey stamps the city a richer market by assigning it a "quality of market index" of 143, meaning that its purchasing power is 43 per cent above that of the average community, regardless of size.

Morris Frock Post Defeats Cumberland

Losers Will Battle Westport Nine Today

HAGERSTOWN, August 1—Morris Frock Post drew first blood in the Maryland American Legion junior baseball tournament tonight by scoring four runs in the ninth inning to defeat Fort Cumberland Post of Cumberland by the score of 5 to 2.

Cumberland held a 2-1 lead going into the top half of the final inning when Hagerstown coupled a base on balls with two wild throws, a fielder's choice, infield out and a single for four tallies and the ball game.

The trouble started in the final stanza when Jimmie Manges fielded Shank's grounder and heaved the ball past first base as the batter rolled up at second. Urgo hit to Manges and the latter's throw failed to cut down Shank at third base. Cole was intentionally passed by Clingan, filling the bases. Don Day bunted and the Cumberland pitcher fumbled the ball then threw wildly to the plate and Shank and Urgo raced home while Cole galloped to third. Kendall bounded out to short and Cole scored while Forsythe's single sent Day over the plate with the fourth and final run of the inning.

Dave Cole limited Cumberland to three hits, including triples by "Sonny" Lease and Joe Reissig, and fired the third strike past 17 Fort Cumberland batsmen. In the ninth inning after Hagerstown took a three-run lead, Cole struck out the side.

Tournament rules provide that a team must lose two games before being eliminated. This gives Cumberland another chance Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when the boys from the Queen City tackle Westport Post of Baltimore. The winner of this contest plays Hagerstown Saturday night in the first game of a best-of-three series for the championship. If a third game is necessary to determine the title a doubleheader will be played Sunday afternoon.

Haas Sets Pace In St. Paul Golf

Worsham, Ferrier Trail By Stroke

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 1 (AP)—An iron game that approached perfection rocketed Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, unattached professional, to a six-under-par 66 and a 36-hole total of 135 in the St. Paul open golf tournament today.

Haas' 66 put him in the lead of a brigade of professionals and amateurs that made something of a mockery of par 72 for the 6,432-yard Keller Municipal Course.

Lack of rain recently has dried out the fairways and greens, resulting in plenty of roll on the balls.

Pushing Haas for the lead were Lew Worsham, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Jim Ferrier of Chicago. The two professionals, who carded 69s in the first round, came in with 67s today for 36 hole totals of 136. Just one stroke behind them was Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla., pro who had a 69 today to go with his 68 of yesterday for 137.

Walcott Conceded Chance To Defeat Louis On Nov. 14

Jersey Joe's Real Name Arnold Cream

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP) — "It took 'em a long time. . ."

That was Joe Webster speaking, manager of a short, squat fellow named Arnold Cream who will climb into the ring against heavyweight champion Joe Louis on November 14.

His real name is Arnold Cream but he's known in fistic cricles as Jersey Joe Walcott—and he began his boxing career as a sparring partner for the same Joe Louis.

"It took 'em a long time to come around to us," Webster said today. "And we aren't getting the kind of match we wanted, but we're happy to have the chance anyway."

"Walcott deserved a shot at the title long ago, but Louis kept giving him the cold shoulder. Instead, Louis wanted to fight Joe Baksi, who was well beaten by Walcott two years ago," Webster went on.

"When Baksi fizzled out, Louis got the idea of these non-title affairs, Walcott was still ignored and Ezzard Charles was picked out as the favored prospect.

"Then Charles flopped against Elmer Ray. There wasn't anybody else in sight, so they finally called me up and offered me the November date."

New York's 20th Century Sporting Club yesterday signed Walcott and Louis for a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden and Abe Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, promptly announced that if Walcott knocks the champion out, the NBA will recognize him as the heavyweight king.

The NBA has been beating the drums for a Louis-Walcott title bout for some time. The Association rates Walcott the best available challenger for the Louis title, making a point, however, to leave the "logical contender" spot vacant.

The Jersey battler admits to 33 years—the same as Louis. He retired from the ring in the late 30's but came back with a rush and has the best record of the current crop of heavyweight contenders.

Webster insisted Jersey Joe has a chance to win, saying:

"Who's going to guarantee that the champ is the same world-beater today that he was even a year ago?

"It's pretty well established that he's slower than ever. He's not younger than Walcott. Jersey Joe can move around, he can box and he can hit.

"Anybody who's able to land one on Louis' jaw is liable to knock him off, and it could be Walcott as easy as anybody—and easier than most."

Mullan Must Pay Fine By Monday, Kelly Says

John R. Kelly, Jr., secretary of the City Softball League, announced yesterday that Maurice Mullan, suspended player of the Virginia Avenue Merchants must pay his $5 fine by Monday or else he will be suspended for the remainder of the season.

The league suspended Mullan for two weeks and fined him $5 for interfering with an umpire during a league contest. Kelly asserted that Mullan was both fined and suspended and the fine must be paid by the time his suspension period ends.

Kelly also stated that the name of Gerald Athey of the Maccabees was omitted by mistake from the roster of players who will be eligible for remaining league games.

Due to many games not being reported to the paper, Kelly requests that all winning teams phone in results hereafter. Heretofore the home teams were asked to report the games but in many instances the home club failed to report when it was defeated.

McCullough Hits Homer And Halts Brooklyn Streak

Cubs Win On Two-Run Clout In Ninth, 10-8

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP) — Catcher Clyde McCullough, long time nemesis of the Brooklyn Dodgers, ended the Brooks' longest winning streak since 1924 today by belting a two-run homer with two out in the ninth to provide the Chicago Cubs with a 10-8 victory over the National League pace-setters. A crowd of 24,319 fans paid to see the slugfest.

McCullough's clout, which landed atop the ramp in leftfield halted the Dodgers' consecutive win streak at 13 games. The victory was only the Cubs third in 16 meetings with the Dodgers this season. The Dodgers' 1924 high was 15 straight. Box:

McKenley To Represent Jamaica In Olympics

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — Herb McKenley, University of Illinois sprinter, will represent his native Jamaica in the 1948 Olympic games in London, AAU Secretary Daniel J. Ferris disclosed today, ending speculation that the dusky speedster might run for the United States.

Although he emphasized that the AAU had made no move to have McKenley wear this country's colors into the Olympics, Ferris said he went into the matter after the sprinter himself announced an intention to seek U. S. citizenship for that purpose.

A query to the U. S. Department of Justice Immigration and Naturalization Service produced the reply that McKenley "is in the United States on a temporary visa and is not eligible to proceed towards naturalization," Ferris said.

AIDS DODGERS — Harry Taylor, the righthander who came up to the Dodgers from St. Paul late last season is one of the big reasons for the spurt of the Brooklyn team to the top of the National League. Taylor's win over St. Louis in the opener of the three-game series which the Dodgers swept was his eighth of the season.

Powers Will Play Third In Teen-Age Baseball Series

International Games Start Next Friday

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — The cream of American and Canadian teen-age baseball talent will take the field Aug. 8-10 at Baltimore's 65,000-seat municipal stadium in the international amateur all-star series for 16-18-year olds.

An outgrowth of the national audition game first staged in Philadelphia four years ago, the sandlot classic will bring together representative nines of the United States and Canada in a two-out-of-three meeting Friday and Saturday nights.

The winner of this series is lined up for a shot at the Baltimore All-Stars, who have been handpicked from more than 400 amateur teams in this area.

Tomlin Directs Series

Joe Tomlin of Philadelphia is directing the series.

The Canadians today were reported to have wound up an intensive two-week training session at their Hamilton, Ont., camp. They are due here Tuesday, one day later than the United States team.

Among the U. S. squad are sandlotters from 13 states and the territory of Hawaii. Three Floridians are included on the roster, two New Yorkers and two Texans. Lone representatives are listed from Alabama, North Carolina, West Virginia, Louisiana, Ohio, Wyoming, Nevada, Connecticut and Maryland.

On the basis of their records, two Yanks in particular stand a chance to see plenty of action in the series. They are tall, lean Frank (Pancho) Womach of Houston, Tex., whose southpaw pitching slants baffled 103 strikeout victims in five American Legion state playoff games last year; and pint-sized shortstop Tsuneo Watanabe, of Honolulu, Hawaii, whose .471 batting average belies his five-foot-four-inch, 135-pound frame.

Powers To Play Third

Holding down third base for the Americans will be Tommy Powers of Cumberland, Maryland's only representatives on the star-studded outfit. Performing for the Ft. Cumberland American Legion Post in the Interstate League, Powers rapped out 18 hits in 56 trips to the plate, including four doubles and a home run.

The remainder of the American squad includes:

Pitchers: Bob McQuatters, Amsterdam, N. Y., Edmund Bonczyk, Schenectady, N. Y.; catchers: Frank House, Jr., Bessemer, Ala., Oree Beck, Charlotte, N. C., Jim Ernesto, West Palm Beach, Fla.; first base: Norman McCord, New Orleans, La., Jack Froistad, Cheyenne, Wyo.; second base: Burton Skidmore, Clarksburg, W. Va., Robert Ryan, Zanesville, O.; shortstop: Norman Goldman, Miami Beach, Fla.;

Third base: Buddy Parker, Corpus Christi, Tex.; outfielders: Jack Sparks, Pi. Bluff, Ark.; Jimmy Brooks, Las Vegas, Nev.; James Steck, Hollywood, Fla.; Lambert Voet, Jr., Waterbury, Conn.

Cleveland Edges New York Yanks By Score Of 4-3

Tribe Wins In 9th On Hegan's Triple

NEW YORK, Aug. 1. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians climaxed an uphill battle in the ninth inning today by scoring on catcher Jim Hegan's triple and Joe Bockman's fly to break a 3-3 tie and defeat the American League's front-running New York Yankees, 4-3.

Joe Page, crack Yankee relief ace, was the victim of the Tribe's winning rally while Red Embree, second of four Cleveland pitchers, was credited with the win.

The Yanke nicked veteran Mel Harder, who started for Cleveland, for a run in the first inning and drove him to cover in favor of Embree with a two-run attack in the fourth on Tommy Henrich's double, two ground outs, George McQuinn's two-bagger and a single by Billy Johnson. Box:

TIGERS BEAT BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — Freddie Hutchinson tonight pitched and batted the Detroit Tigers to a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox before 32,286 paid fans. The loss left the Sox 12 games in back of the leading New York Yankees and only a half game ahead of the third place Tigers.

Hutchinson gave up only six hits, two of them followed by two errors giving the Sox their only run, and slammed out a lusty triple to drive in all his team's runs.

Hoot Evers, Eddie Mayo and Bob Swift singled in succession in the sixth inning with one out. Hutchinson then picked on the first pitch offered him by Starter Dave Ferriss and whacked it into the right field corner for a three bagger. Score.

Morris Frock Post Defeats Cumberland

Losers Will Battle Westport Nine Today

HAGERSTOWN, August 1—Morris Frock Post drew first blood in the Maryland American Legion junior baseball tournament tonight by scoring four runs in the ninth inning to defeat Fort Cumberland Post of Cumberland by the score of 5 to 2.

Cumberland held a 2-1 lead going into the top half of the final inning when Hagerstown coupled a base on balls with two wild throws, a fielder's choice, infield out and a single for four tallies and the ball game.

The trouble started in the final stanza when Jimmie Manges fielded Shank's grounder and heaved the ball past first base as the batter rolled up at second. Urgo hit to Manges and the latter's throw failed to cut down Shank at third base. Cole was intentionally passed by Clingan, filling the bases. Don Day bunted and the Cumberland pitcher fumbled the ball then threw wildly to the plate and Shank and Urgo raced home while Cole galloped to third. Kendall bounded out to short and Cole scored while Forsythe's single sent Day over the platter with the fourth and final run of the inning.

Dave Cole limited Cumberland to three hits, including triples by "Sonny" Lease and Joe Reissig, and fired the third strike past 17 Fort Cumberland batsmen. In the ninth inning after Hagerstown took a three-run lead, Cole struck out the side.

Tournament rules provide that a team must lose two games before being eliminated. This gives Cumberland another chance Saturday afternoon at 2:30 when the boys from the Queen City tackle Westport Post of Baltimore. The winner of this contest plays Hagerstown Saturday night in the first game of a best-of-three series for the championship. If a third game is necessary to determine the title a doubleheader will be played Sunday afternoon.

Haas Sets Pace In St. Paul Golf

Worsham, Ferrier Trail By Stroke

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 1 (AP)—An iron game that approached perfection rocketed Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, unattached professional, to a six-under-par 66 and a 36-hole total of 135 in the St. Paul open golf tournament today.

Haas' 66 put him in the lead of a brigade of professionals and amateurs that made something of a mockery of par 72 for the 6,432-yard Keller Municipal Course.

Lack of rain recently has dried out the fairways and greens, resulting in plenty of roll on the balls.

Pushing Haas for the lead were Lew Worsham, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Jim Ferrier of Chicago. The two professionals, who carded 69s in the first round, came in with 67s today for 36 hole totals of 136. Just one stroke behind them was Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla., pro who had a 69 today to go with his 68 of yesterday for 137.

Walcott Conceded Chance To Defeat Louis On Nov. 14

Jersey Joe's Real Name Arnold Cream

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP) — "It took 'em a long time. . ."

That was Joe Webster speaking, manager of a short, squat fellow named Arnold Cream who will climb into the ring against heavyweight champion Joe Louis on November 14.

His real name is Arnold Cream but he's known in fistic cricles as Jersey Joe Walcott—and he began his boxing career as a sparring partner for the same Joe Louis.

"It took 'em a long time to come around to us," Webster said today. "And we aren't getting the kind of match we wanted, but we're happy to have the chance anyway."

"Walcott deserved a shot at the title long ago, but Louis kept giving him the cold shoulder. Instead, Louis wanted to fight Joe Baksi, who was well beaten by Walcott two years ago," Webster went on.

"When Baksi fizzled out, Louis got the idea of these non-title affairs, Walcott was still ignored and Ezzard Charles was picked out as the favored prospect.

"Then Charles flopped against Elmer Ray. There wasn't anybody else in sight, so they finally called me up and offered me the November date."

New York's 20th Century Sporting Club yesterday signed Walcott and Louis for a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden and Abe Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, promptly announced that if Walcott knocks the champion out, the NBA will recognize him as the heavyweight king.

The NBA has been beating the drums for a Louis-Walcott title bout for some time. The Association rates Walcott the best available challenger for the Louis title, making a point, however, to leave the "logical contender" spot vacant.

The Jersey battler admits to 33 years—the same as Louis. He retired from the ring in the late 30's but came back with a rush and has the best record of the current crop of heavyweight contenders.

Webster insisted Jersey Joe has a chance to win, saying:

"Who's going to guarantee that the champ is the same world-beater today that he was even a year ago?

"It's pretty well established that he's slower than ever. He's not younger than Walcott. Jersey Joe can move around, he can box and he can hit.

"Anybody who's able to land one on Louis' jaw is liable to knock him off, and it could be Walcott as easy as anybody—and easier than most."

Mullan Must Pay Fine By Monday, Kelly Says

John R. Kelly, Jr., secretary of the City Softball League, announced yesterday that Maurice Mullan, suspended player of the Virginia Avenue Merchants must pay his $5 fine by Monday or else he will be suspended for the remainder of the season.

The league suspended Mullan for two weeks and fined him $5 for interfering with an umpire during a league contest. Kelly asserted that Mullan was both fined and suspended and the fine must be paid by the time his suspension period ends.

Kelly also stated that the name of Gerald Athey of the Maccabees was omitted by mistake from the roster of players who will be eligible for remaining league games.

Due to many games not being reported to the paper, Kelly requests that all winning teams phone in results hereafter. Heretofore the home teams were asked to report the games but in many instances the home club failed to report when it was defeated.

McCullough Hits Homer And Halts Brooklyn Streak

Cubs Win On Two-Run Clout In Ninth, 10-8

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP) — Catcher Clyde McCullough, long time nemesis of the Brooklyn Dodgers, ended the Brooks' longest winning streak since 1924 today by belting a two-run homer with two out in the ninth to provide the Chicago Cubs with a 10-8 victory over the National League pace-setters. A crowd of 24,319 fans paid to see the slugfest.

McCullough's clout, which landed atop the ramp in leftfield halted the Dodgers' consecutive win streak at 13 games. The victory was only the Cubs third in 16 meetings with the Dodgers this season. The Dodgers' 1924 high was 15 straight. Box:

McKenley To Represent Jamaica In Olympics

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — Herb McKenley, University of Illinois sprinter, will represent his native Jamaica in the 1948 Olympic games in London, AAU Secretary Daniel J. Ferris disclosed today, ending speculation that the dusky speedster might run for the United States.

Although he emphasized that the AAU had made no move to have McKenley wear this country's colors into the Olympics, Ferris said he went into the matter after the sprinter himself announced an intention to seek U. S. citizenship for that purpose.

A query to the U. S. Department of Justice Immigration and Naturalization Service produced the reply that McKenley "is in the United States on a temporary visa and is not eligible to proceed towards naturalization," Ferris said.

AIDS DODGERS — Harry Taylor, the righthander who came up to the Dodgers from St. Paul late last season is one of the big reasons for the spurt of the Brooklyn team to the top of the National League. Taylor's win over St. Louis in the opener of the three-game series which the Dodgers swept was his eighth of the season.

Powers Will Play Third In Teen-Age Baseball Series

International Games Start Next Friday

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — The cream of American and Canadian teen-age baseball talent will take the field Aug. 8-10 at Baltimore's 65,000-seat municipal stadium in the international amateur all-star series for 16-18-year olds.

An outgrowth of the national audition game first staged in Philadelphia four years ago, the sandlot classic will bring together representative nines of the United States and Canada in a two-out-of-three meeting Friday and Saturday nights.

The winner of this series is lined up for a shot at the Baltimore All-Stars, who have been handpicked from more than 400 amateur teams in this area.

Tomlin Directs Series

Joe Tomlin of Philadelphia is directing the series.

The Canadians today were reported to have wound up an intensive two-week training session at their Hamilton, Ont., camp. They are due here Tuesday, one day later than the United States team.

Among the U. S. squad are sandlotters from 13 states and the territory of Hawaii. Three Floridians are included on the roster, two New Yorkers and two Texans. Lone representatives are listed from Alabama, North Carolina, West Virginia, Louisiana, Ohio, Wyoming, Nevada, Connecticut and Maryland.

On the basis of their records, two Yanks in particular stand a chance to see plenty of action in the series. They are tall, lean Frank (Pancho) Womach of Houston, Tex., whose southpaw pitching slants baffled 103 strikeout victims in five American Legion state playoff games last year; and pint-sized shortstop Tsuneo Watanabe, of Honolulu, Hawaii, whose .471 batting average belies his five-foot-four-inch, 135-pound frame.

Powers To Play Third

Holding down third base for the Americans will be Tommy Powers of Cumberland, Maryland's only representatives on the star-studded outfit. Performing for the Ft. Cumberland American Legion Post in the Interstate League, Powers rapped out 18 hits in 56 trips to the plate, including four doubles and a home run.

The remainder of the American squad includes:

Pitchers: Bob McQuatters, Amsterdam, N. Y., Edmund Bonczyk, Schenectady, N. Y.; catchers: Frank House, Jr., Bessemer, Ala., Oree Beck, Charlotte, N. C., Jim Ernestion, West Palm Beach, Fla.; first base: Norman McCord, New Orleans, La., Jack Froistad, Cheyenne, Wyo.; second base: Burton Skidmore, Clarksburg, W. Va., Robert Ryan, Zanesville, O.; shortstop: Norman Goldman, Miami Beach, Fla.;

Third base: Buddy Parker, Corpus Christi, Tex.; outfielders: Jack Sparks, Pi. Bluff, Ark.; Jimmy Brooks, Las Vegas, Nev.; James Steck, Hollywood, Fla.; Lambert Voet, Jr., Waterbury, Conn.

Round View Favored

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP) — Round View, winner of last Saturday's Monmouth Handicap, where he hung out record figures for the mile and a quarter, will be top weight and public choice for tomorrow's renewal of the $25,000 All-American Handicap, main event of the 21-day summer meeting here.

Cleveland Edges New York Yanks By Score Of 4-3

Tribe Wins In 9th On Hegan's Triple

NEW YORK, Aug. 1. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians climaxed an uphill battle in the ninth inning today by scoring on catcher Jim Hegan's triple and Joe Bockman's fly to break a 3-3 tie and defeat the American League's front-running New York Yankees, 4-3.

Joe Page, crack Yankee relief ace, was the victim of the Tribe's winning rally while Red Embree, second of four Cleveland pitchers, was credited with the win.

The Yanke nicked veteran Mel Harder, who started for Cleveland, for a run in the first inning and drove him to cover in favor of Embree with a two-run attack in the fourth on Tommy Henrich's double, two ground outs, George McQuinn's two-bagger and a single by Billy Johnson. Box:

TIGERS BEAT BOSTON

BOSTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — Freddie Hutchinson tonight pitched and batted the Detroit Tigers to a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox before 32,286 paid fans. The loss left the Sox 12 games in back of the leading New York Yankees and only a half game ahead of the third place Tigers.

Hutchinson gave up only six hits, two of them followed by two errors giving the Sox their only run, and slammed out a lusty triple to drive in all his team's runs.

Hoot Evers, Eddie Mayo and Bob Swift singled in succession in the sixth inning with one out. Hutchinson then picked on the first pitch offered him by Starter Dave Ferriss and whacked it into the right field corner for a three bagger. Score.

Junior Loop Opens Series On Monday

A playoff to decide third and fourth place in the Junior City Softball League will be staged on Sunday at noon at Stitcher Field between the Redmen and Cadillac teams, it was announced last night by John Angellatta, president of the circuit.

The teams are now tied for third place.

The league's championship series will get under way Monday with Williams Street's Merchants playing the winner of the Sunday morning game at Fort Hill field while Beightol's Bouncers will battle tomorrow morning's losing team at Campobello.

Tomorrow's playoff and the series games on Monday will get under way at 6 p. m.

Williams Street finished in first place and Beightol's Bouncers were the runners-up.

The Bouncers defeated East Side in the final game on the regular schedule at Fort Hill lower field by the score of 10-8.

Bobby Goss rapped out two hits, including a two-run homer, Bob Cunningham rapped two triples, Paul Crites pitched two-hit ball as relief pitcher after replacing Murray in the third and

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1—Talk about zooming to the top—Burt Lancaster, an unknown two movies back, has been given his own independent production company at U-I, at least for one fling.

Bob Hope

Not since Clark Gable has any actor hit as hard as this Lancaster who is hotter than the so-called breeze trying to sneak through my window.

Most actors wait years to get important enough to put their feet on a desk and boss the works. But not this baby.

The movie he'll make is "Its The Blood Off My Hand," the terrible title on a really good book by Gerald Butler. It's a thriller with a London background.

Associated with Producer Lancaster are Harold Hecht, his agent, and Richard Vernon who will assist in production.

George Raft went down today to get his passport for Europe. He sails in October to make "Outpost In the French Legion" for Sam Bishoff. He'll film it in French Morocco.

George was ready to leave for Europe to discuss the deal at the time of the Bugsy Siegel murder, but when his name was brought up as a friend of the late underworld chieftain, he canceled his sailing. He has a picture to make at RKO titled "Race Street," between now and October.

"Will you please say," said George, "that I'm not going to Paris to see Virginia Hill, or for any other reason than to make the picture."

It's Alexis Smith, Warner contract player, who gets the lead in "Christopher Blake." That, I believe, was quietly decided after Jack Warner learned he couldn't get Norma Shearer. Norma liked the script and would have loved to make the picture. But she tells me when she goes to Europe August 22 she's going to stay there for sometime.

The two Thalberg children will be put in school in Switzerland, and Marty Arrouge will have a chance to ski at St. Moritz to his heart's content. This is certainly a break for the Smith gal.

Girls, you'd better listen to Clark Gable Sunday when he's on my show. He's going to give the definition for glamor. He ought to know—he's played opposite more beautiful women than any actor in Hollywood.

Here's just a few of the gals to whom he's made screen love—Claudette Colbert, Deborah Kerr, Lana Turner, Greer Garson, Vivien Leigh, Joan Crawford, Marion Davies and many, many others, so he really knows what constitutes glamor. Of course, he'll have other things to say too.

Chatter in Hollywood: Corinne Calvay, Paramount's French discovery, and such a pretty, sweet girl, is expecting her boy friend, Jean Francois Laley, over here very soon.

She says that the expensive ring on her engagement finger was put there four months ago by Laley and it's possible they will marry when he arrives here. Miss Calvay is one of the prettiest of the foreign importations.

A new director to keep your eye on is Robert Rossen, former writer, who handled his first megaphone job on "Johnny O'Clock" and just completed "Body And Soul" for Charlie Einfeld. Both are goodies, too. He'll also direct the Pulitzer prize winning novel "All The King's Men" for Columbia.

I must say Rossen is getting ambitious seeking Olivia De Havilland for "La Cigale," the Anton Tchekov short story—and the next picture he directs, Everybody wants Livvy and she is a girl who is picking and choosing carefully.

However, she has told Rossen she is interested in the script.

I was talking to Dore Schary, RKO head, and he tells me that their woman producer over there, Harriet Parsons, has been given a new contract with a nice raise. "That's because," saide Dore, "her picture, 'Memory of Love' is so good."

Congratulations, Miss Parsons—and say, by the way, do you remember mama?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bob Hope is still sick and under the care of two doctors. The infection has spread to his eyes.

Jack Warner leaves for Europe next week to join Ann.

Greater love hath no woman! Mrs. John Wayne flew to Monument Valley, Ariz., where the temperature is 107 so she could be with John, who is working in "War Party." Well it's 95 here.

Ginny Simms will live in the east for six months because of her radio show which starts there in September. Her husband goes with her—but natch.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1—Talk about zooming to the top—Burt Lancaster, an unknown two movies back, has been given his own independent production company at U-I, at least for one fling.

Bob Hope

Not since Clark Gable has any actor hit as hard as this Lancaster who is hotter than the so-called breeze trying to sneak through my window.

Most actors wait years to get important enough to put their feet on a desk and boss the works. But not this baby.

The movie he'll make is "Its The Blood Off My Hand," the terrible title on a really good book by Gerald Butler. It's a thriller with a London background.

Associated with Producer Lancaster are Harold Hecht, his agent, and Richard Vernon who will assist in production.

George Raft went down today to get his passport for Europe. He sails in October to make "Outpost In the French Legion" for Sam Bishoff. He'll film it in French Morocco.

George was ready to leave for Europe to discuss the deal at the time of the Bugsy Siegel murder, but when his name was brought up as a friend of the late underworld chieftain, he canceled his sailing. He has a picture to make at RKO titled "Race Street," between now and October.

"Will you please say," said George, "that I'm not going to Paris to see Virginia Hill, or for any other reason than to make the picture."

It's Alexis Smith, Warner contract player, who gets the lead in "Christopher Blake." That, I believe, was quietly decided after Jack Warner learned he couldn't get Norma Shearer. Norma liked the script and would have loved to make the picture. But she tells me when she goes to Europe August 22 she's going to stay there for sometime.

The two Thalberg children will be put in school in Switzerland, and Marty Arrouge will have a chance to ski at St. Moritz to his heart's content. This is certainly a break for the Smith gal.

Girls, you'd better listen to Clark Gable Sunday when he's on my show. He's going to give the definition for glamor. He ought to know—he's played opposite more beautiful women than any actor in Hollywood.

Here's just a few of the gals to whom he's made screen love—Claudette Colbert, Deborah Kerr, Lana Turner, Greer Garson, Vivien Leigh, Joan Crawford, Marion Davies and many, many others, so he really knows what constitutes glamor. Of course, he'll have other things to say too.

Chatter in Hollywood: Corinne Calvay, Paramount's French discovery, and such a pretty, sweet girl, is expecting her boy friend, Jean Francois Laley, over here very soon.

She says that the expensive ring on her engagement finger was put there four months ago by Laley and it's possible they will marry when he arrives here. Miss Calvay is one of the prettiest of the foreign importations.

A new director to keep your eye on is Robert Rossen, former writer, who handled his first megaphone job on "Johnny O'Clock" and just completed "Body And Soul" for Charlie Einfeld. Both are goodies, too. He'll also direct the Pulitzer prize winning novel "All The King's Men" for Columbia.

I must say Rossen is getting ambitious seeking Olivia De Havilland for "La Cigale," the Anton Tchekov short story—and the next picture he directs. Everybody wants Livvy and she is a girl who is picking and choosing carefully.

However, she has told Rossen she is interested in the script.

I was talking to Dore Schary, RKO head, and he tells me that their woman producer over there, Harriet Parsons, has been given a new contract with a nice raise. "That's because," saide Dore, "her picture, 'Memory of Love' is so good."

Congratulations, Miss Parsons—and say, by the way, do you remember mama?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bob Hope is still sick and under the care of two doctors. The infection has spread to his eyes.

Jack Warner leaves for Europe next week to join Ann.

Greater love hath no woman! Mrs. John Wayne flew to Monument Valley, Ariz., where the temperature is 107 so she could be with John, who is working in "War Party." Well it's 95 here.

Ginny Simms will live in the east for six months because of her radio show which starts there in September. Her husband goes with her—but natch.

FORMER OWNER OF FARM AWARDED $30 IN COURT

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew awarded Charles A. Propst, Flintstone, $30 in a decision announced yesterday in a civil suit heard Wednesday in Trial Magistrates' Court involving Propst and the purchaser of his farm.

Propst, who sued McKinley Morris for $130, sold his farm at Flintstone to Morris and contended that Morris owed him $80 for rental of pasture, $20 for lumber left on the property, $18 for planting his corn and $12 for a ladder and other equipment.

In the testimony Wednesday, the plaintiff stated that Morris had refused to allow him to take a ladder and other equipment from the farm after he had relinquished occupancy.

The farm was sold to Morris in June, 1945, and Propst, according to an agreement, was allowed to live on the place until November, 1945. The dispute over pasturing of cattle on the farm before November by the defendant was the basis of Propst's claim for pasture rental. Magistrate Perdew decreed that Morris was abiding by the laws of purchase when he put his livestock on the place and disallowed the $80 claim.

Propst was awarded $30 for the ladder and other equipment and for labor involved in planting Morris' corn in April, 1946. The value of the wood and lumber left on the farm was indefinite and no allotment was made.

William M. Somerville was attorney for Propst and William L. Wilson represented Morris.

The first steel plow in the United States was made in 1833 by screwing pieces of saw blades to the wooden ploy frame.

Garrett County Miners Are Refused Benefits For Week Of April 7 To 14

U.M.W. Lawyer Posts Appeal

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., July 31—All union coal miners in Garrett County were denied unemployment compensation during the week of April 7 to 14, when they did not return to work, according to an opinion of the Referee of the State of Maryland, Division of Unemployment Compensation, Department of Employment Security.

The decision was made July 18, and the local office, under Charles L. Briner, was notified this week.

The miners had claimed unemployment compensation during that time, contending that they were out of work because the mines were closed. The week of no work followed the holiday mourning period April 1 to 7, out of respect of those who lost their lives in the Illinois mine disaster.

At the time F. H. Collison, Coal Mine Administrator in the United States, did close over 600 mines because the federal mine inspector of the previous year had stated that some of the mines were not safe and should be repaired before work started.

According to the information given, the mines in Garrett County were not included in those ordered to be closed, and were open for work on April 7.

Hearings on the miners applications for unemployment compensation were held in Kitzmiller on May 6 and May 16, and included union workers at the mines of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, Kempton; Wolf Den Coal Company, Shallmar; Pritts Brothers Coal Company, Garrett Coal Corporation, McNitt Coal Company, Kitzmiller; and the Johnstown Coal and Coke Company, Vindex.

In the decision the referee stated that no reasons had been advanced by claimants as to why they failed to report for work on April 7, that notices had been posted prior to April 7 to the effect that they would open on that date, and that any necessary repairs either had been made or were in process of being made, and that no logical basis for their refusal to work had been given. "The failure to return to work was without good cause," the referee declared.

Mr. Briner said that on July 29 the attorney for the United Mine Workers, District 16, had filed an appeal from the decision with the Unemployment Compensation Board.

Teacher Outlook Bright

For the first time in many years, teachers have not been resigning their newly appointed positions, according to a statement by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools. The list of teacher appointments, however, was not ready for release, he said.

The outlook is bright, however, he added, and vacancies are bing filled in a satisfactory manner. The principals of the various high schools through the county have accepted their appointments. They are F. D. Bittle, Oakland High; Marshall G. Brown, Grantsville High; B. O. Aiken, Accident High; William J. Glenn, Friendsville High, and T. V. Baucom, Kitzmiller High.

The county superintendent attributed the ease in filling teaching positions to the increase in pay which was brought about this year through the state legislature. The minimum increase will boost the teacher's wage at least $700.

Dr. Thomas E. Pullen, state superintendent, and John J. Seidel, state director of vocational education of the Federal government for Maryland, conferred with the local school board of education on Monday and Tuesday.

According to Walter W. Dawson, president o f the board, only routine business was discussed at the school board meeting. Bus contracts were not completed and the meeting will resume next Tuesday.

The Oakland Elementary school, of which Merle J. Frantz will return as principal, according to Mr. Rathbun, is being completely renovated. Five men are being employed to paint or varnish the woodwork, walls and desks.

FHA Office Reopens

The Farmers Home Administration office, formerly the Farm Security Administration, which suspended business here on June 30, was reopened July 30, according to B. Beeson Snyder, supervisor for Garrett and Allegany counties.

The order to resume business was received from the state office in Baltimore as the result of Congressional action, with funds for another year.

Discuss New Armory

At a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Monday, August 4, at the Oakland Country Club, the letter concerning the possibility of a national guard armory here will be discussed, and an endeavor made to obtain temporary quarters for a unit and to assist in recruiting the required personnel.

"This is a community project," Joseph M. Gonder, commander, stated, "and it is urgent that all members be present. Interest in the project doesn't necessarily mean that an individual should sign up for the national guard. This is left up to the desires of each one."

Legion Endorses Armory

At the regular meeting of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion, this week a letter concerning the erection of a national guard armory here from Milton A. Reckord, Major General, head of the national guard in the state, was given full endorsement, according to Paul A. Turney, post commander. A committee of legion members will be set up with the purpose of collaborating with other organizations that wish to further the project, Mr. Turney said.

The state has appropriated $560,000 for the erection of armories in four different counties, including one at Oakland, but maintenance of an organized guard, temporary facilities and general interest are among the prerequisites.

Present at the meeting were Samuel Graham, mountain vice-commander; James E. Kenney, mountain vice-commander-elect; Frank Powers, commander of Farrady Post No. 24, Frostburg; and Arthur G. Ramey. Officers for the coming year for the local post were installed by Mr. Graham.

Ski Resort Planned

Howard Naylor has leased about 30 acres of ground on Hooppole Ridge, about 6 miles north of town, on U. S. 219, which he will prepare for a skiing area this winter.

He is planning to erect a ski tow, about 600 feet in length, to be completed sometime in September, and will clear out stones and other obstructions that will make possible a run of about one-half mile and will include shorter trails for beginners.

FORMER OWNER OF FARM AWARDED $30 IN COURT

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew awarded Charles A. Propst, Flintstone, $30 in a decision announced yesterday in a civil suit heard Wednesday in Trial Magistrates' Court involving Propst and the purchaser of his farm.

Propst, who sued McKinley Morris for $130, sold his farm at Flintstone to Morris and contended that Morris owed him $80 for rental of pasture, $20 for lumber left on the property, $18 for planting his corn and $12 for a ladder and other equipment.

In the testimony Wednesday, the plaintiff stated that Morris had refused to allow him to take a ladder and other equipment from the farm after he had relinquished occupancy.

The farm was sold to Morris in June, 1945, and Propst, according to an agreement, was allowed to live on the place until November, 1945. The dispute over pasturing of cattle on the farm before November by the defendant was the basis of Propst's claim for pasture rental. Magistrate Perdew decreed that Morris was abiding by the laws of purchase when he put his livestock on the place and disallowed the $80 claim.

Propst was awarded $30 for the ladder and other equipment and for labor involved in planting Morris' corn in April, 1946. The value of the wood and lumber left on the farm was indefinite and no allotment was made.

William M. Somerville was attorney for Propst and William L. Wilson represented Morris.

Garrett County Miners Are Refused Benefits For Week Of April 7 To 14

U.M.W. Lawyer Posts Appeal

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., July 31—All union coal miners in Garrett County were denied unemployment compensation during the week of April 7 to 14, when they did not return to work, according to an opinion of the Referee of the State of Maryland, Division of Unemployment Compensation, Department of Employment Security.

The decision was made July 18, and the local office, under Charles L. Briner, was notified this week.

The miners had claimed unemployment compensation during that time, contending that they were out of work because the mines were closed. The week of no work followed the holiday mourning period April 1 to 7, out of respect of those who lost their lives in the Illinois mine disaster.

At the time F. H. Collison, Coal Mine Administrator in the United States, did close over 600 mines because the federal mine inspector of the previous year had stated that some of the mines were not safe and should be repaired before work started.

According to the information given, the mines in Garrett County were not included in those ordered to be closed, and were open for work on April 7.

Hearings on the miners applications for unemployment compensation were held in Kitzmiller on May 6 and May 16, and included union workers at the mines of the Davis Coal and Coke Company, Kempton; Wolf Den Coal Company, Shallmar; Pritts Brothers Coal Company, Garrett Coal Corporation, McNitt Coal Company, Kitzmiller; and the Johnstown Coal and Coke Company, Vindex.

In the decision the referee stated that no reasons had been advanced by claimants as to why they failed to report for work on April 7, that notices had been posted prior to April 7 to the effect that they would open on that date, and that any necessary repairs either had been made or were in process of being made, and that no logical basis for their refusal to work had been given. "The failure to return to work was without good cause," the referee declared.

Mr. Briner said that on July 29 the attorney for the United Mine Workers, District 16, had filed an appeal from the decision with the Unemployment Compensation Board.

Teacher Outlook Bright

For the first time in many years, teachers have not been resigning their newly appointed positions, according to a statement by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools. The list of teacher appointments, however, was not ready for release, he said.

The outlook is bright, however, he added, and vacancies are bing filled in a satisfactory manner. The principals of the various high schools through the county have accepted their appointments. They are F. D. Bittle, Oakland High; Marshall G. Brown, Grantsville High; B. O. Aiken, Accident High; William J. Glenn, Friendsville High, and T. V. Baucom, Kitzmiller High.

The county superintendent attributed the ease in filling teaching positions to the increase in pay which was brought about this year through the state legislature. The minimum increase will boost the teacher's wage at least $700.

Dr. Thomas E. Pullen, state superintendent, and John J. Seidel, state director of vocational education of the Federal government for Maryland, conferred with the local school board of education on Monday and Tuesday.

According to Walter W. Dawson, president o f the board, only routine business was discussed at the school board meeting. Bus contracts were not completed and the meeting will resume next Tuesday.

The Oakland Elementary school, of which Merle J. Frantz will return as principal, according to Mr. Rathbun, is being completely renovated. Five men are being employed to paint or varnish the woodwork, walls and desks.

FHA Office Reopens

The Farmers Home Administration office, formerly the Farm Security Administration, which suspended business here on June 30, was reopened July 30, according to B. Beeson Snyder, supervisor for Garrett and Allegany counties.

The order to resume business was received from the state office in Baltimore as the result of Congressional action, with funds for another year.

Discuss New Armory

At a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Monday, August 4, at the Oakland Country Club, the letter concerning the possibility of a national guard armory here will be discussed, and an endeavor made to obtain temporary quarters for a unit and to assist in recruiting the required personnel.

"This is a community project," Joseph M. Gonder, commander, stated, "and it is urgent that all members be present. Interest in the project doesn't necessarily mean that an individual should sign up for the national guard. This is left up to the desires of each one."

Legion Endorses Armory

At the regular meeting of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion, this week a letter concerning the erection of a national guard armory here from Milton A. Reckord, Major General, head of the national guard in the state, was given full endorsement, according to Paul A. Turney, post commander. A committee of legion members will be set up with the purpose of collaborating with other organizations that wish to further the project, Mr. Turney said.

The state has appropriated $560,000 for the erection of armories in four different counties, including one at Oakland, but maintenance of an organized guard, temporary facilities and general interest are among the prerequisites.

Present at the meeting were Samuel Graham, mountain vice-commander; James E. Kenney, mountain vice-commander-elect; Frank Powers, commander of Farrady Post No. 24, Frostburg; and Arthur G. Ramey. Officers for the coming year for the local post were installed by Mr. Graham.

Ski Resort Planned

He is planning to erect a ski tow, about 600 feet in length, to be completed sometime in September, and will clear out stones and other obstructions that will make possible a run of about one-half mile and will include shorter trails for beginners.

Mrs. Hitchcock was sitting up in bed when she was visited by a reporter in her hospital room yesterday. She shook hands firmly, and was interested to hear that her visitor's birthday is the same week as her own. With a twinkle in her blue eyes, she said "I'll trade places with you!"

She followed the conversation with interest, and supplied the name of one of her great-great-grandchildren when Mrs. Sturtevant could not recall it.

Besides Mrs. Sturtevant, Mrs. Hitchcock has another niece, Mrs. John K. Millholland, Louisa, W. Va.; one nephew, William DeVries, LaVale; two great-grandsons, Charles and William Johnson, and three great-great-grandchildren, Charles, Josephine and William Johnson, Jr., all of this city.

As the visit ended and the day nurse adjusted the pillows before going off duty, Mrs. Hitchcock glanced up at her and said, "Get some rest, my dear. You look tired."

Crows CAN'T TELL THE DIFFERENCE

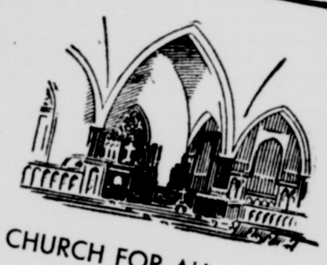

It isn't hard to fool a crow. Just hang some tattered clothes on a stick—and the crow thinks he's looking at a man. That's why the ragged gentleman in the picture has been so successful in keeping the field to himself.

But we know he's just a "scarecrow." We can tell the difference!

We can tell a real man from an imitation of a man . . . and we can tell a man of moral strength from one of moral weakness. We are not easily deceived by false fronts: we look for character in the people we meet.

We seek to build character, also. That's why our churches are so important. We rely on our churches to mold the character of our children through religious education. And in our churches we fortify our own character through regular worship of God.

Thoughtful men and women attend worship services and support the Church. They see the difference that religious faith makes in the life of the individual and the welfare of the community! Go to church this Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

CROWS CAN'T TELL THE DIFFERENCE

It isn't hard to fool a crow. Just hang some tattered clothes on a stick—and the crow thinks he's looking at a man. That's why the ragged gentleman in the picture has been so successful in keeping the field to himself.

But we know he's just a "scarecrow." We can tell the difference!

We can tell a real man from an imitation of a man . . . and we can tell a man of moral strength from one of moral weakness. We are not easily deceived by false fronts: we look for character in the people we meet.

We seek to build character, also. That's why our churches are so important. We rely on our churches to mold the character of our children through religious education. And in our churches we fortify our own character through regular worship of God.

Thoughtful men and women attend worship services and support the Church. They see the difference that religious faith makes in the life of the individual and the welfare of the community! Go to church this Sunday.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

France has four important rivers, the Seine, the Loire, the Garonne and the Rhone, the left bank of the Rhine from Basle, Switzerland, to Lauterbourg, and a dozen others. They are all of great value because of canalization, which binds them together. The waterways total 7,543 miles in length, of which canals cover 3,031.

Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

Club 15

A fifteen-minute day-time show repeated five times a week, the soap companies long ago discovered, is an inexpensive and in many cases more effective means of selling than one big half-hour evening show, no matter what its Hooper rating. The "Chesterfield Supper Club" has followed this pattern with great success on a five-a-week evening showshow, where the time is a little more expensive, and now Campbell's Soup, in one of the biggest deals in radio, has tied up C.B.S. five times a week (Mondays through Fridays, 7:30 to 8 p. m., E.D.T.) with two fifteen-minute shows. One is "Club 15", a musical featuring Bob Crosby and patterned fairly closely after the Supper Club. The other is a news summary with Bob Trout doing the vocal. Edward R. Murrow, recently resigned vice-president of C.B.S. who made a towering reputation as a news commentator during the war, will replace Trout on September 29.

John Crosby

"Club 15" hasn't the chic of the Supper Club. It doesn't seem to want it. It's Broadway whereas the Supper Club is the East 50's. It's a brasher show with more noise, more brass, more hoopla and a great deal more yelling from the studio audience. Bob Crosby, who unfortunately resides in the permanent shadow of his big brother as does everyone afflicted with the name Crosby, is a hearty ex-lieutenant of the Marines who is reminiscent of Bing in many ways besides his name. He signs like him, talks like him and uses the same off-hand methods of commenting between songs. ("Mighty mellow Maggie, mighty mellow.") He doesn't do any of these things as well as his brother, Bing, but he does them well enough.

Besides Mr. Crosby, you'll find Jerry Gray's orchestra, the Modernaires, a quintet which can outshout the Andrews Sisters; and two feminine singers, Patti Clayton and Margaret Whiting, who appear on alternate nights. Miss Clayton is the girl who will be remembered, not necessarily with affection, as the original Chiquita who cautioned us frenziedly against putting bananas in the refrigerator. When you get her off the subject of bananas, she has a thin, husky, plaintive voice of the type greatly in vogue right now. Miss Whiting, daughter of the late Dick Whiting, the composer, has one of the warmest and most pleasant voices anywhere.

Club 15, I'm afraid, is weighted down with what may only be described as boy-girl jokes, most of them leading into song cues. I preserved a couple in formaldehyde for my collection. Here they are:

Girl: Put you arms around me. Now isn't there something you want to ask me?

Boy: Yeah, who's going to play the mandolin?

Boy: I'm happy to share billing with you, but it isn't billing I'm interested in, it's what billing leads to

Boy: Cooing.

This sort of thing has kept the college humor magazines in operation for years and there must be a supply of these jokes large enough to keep "Club 15" stocked up for the next decade. Considerably more effort has been expended on the commercials than on the jokes. One commercial was a drama roughly the length of "Mourning Becomes Electra", another was a very funny singing commercial to the strains of "Vesti La Giubba" and several of them were those casual plugs that sneak up on you. Some are good, some are terrible but all of them, I'd say were too long for a fifteen-minute show. One last word about Mr. Crosby. He sang "Too-ra-loo-ra-loo-ral" the other day, rushing out where even Perry Como would hesitate to tread.

As for the news program, Bob Trout has a professional, homogenized voice; he plays down the more sensational news with refreshing skepticism, but he doesn't offer anything like a complete news picture. He mixes headline news with what I should say is far too much small feature stuff. Just what Mr. Murrow plans to do here I couldn't say, but I devoutly hope he gives us a little more interpretive journalism on the big stories, and a lot less meaningless feature stuff. When he was in London, Murrow used to humanize his news with small, personal anecdotes which tied right in with the big news. That I would like to hear again.

Speaking of fifteen-minute shows, the Supper Club has been redecorated for the summer with the emphasis on the band rather than on the singers. Tex Beneke and the late Glenn Miller's orchestra alternate with Frankie Carle and orchestra. I guess everyone knows what the Miller band sounds like. As for Mr. Carle, a pianist with an extraordinary agile right hand, he can do great things to "Stardust" and to a great many other tunes too.

Park naturalist, Arthur Stupka, of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, says there are three dozen varieties of violets and 10 kinds of trilliums in the park. The fire pink is a scarlet flower growing singly along the roadside. There are also wild bleeding hearts, columbines, wild phlox and three species of wild magnolias, the latter, of course, being tree flowers.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of those who sent flowers, donated cars, or in any way helped during the illness and at the time of death of our husband and father, Mr. Willie M. Hartley. We also wish to thank Rev. E. O. Dickerson, Rev. T. E. Richardson, Rev. James Reckley and Rev. Hall for their words of sympathy and the Reckley families for the words of comfort in song.

Mrs. Willie M. Hartley & Children.

We take this opportunity to express our deepest thanks to all the neighbors and friends who aided and comforted us in our recent bereavement, the death of Floyd E. Vanderhout. We especially thank Rev. Fr. Klikenney, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, for his comforting words, and also, the pallbearers, those who sent Mass cards and floral tributes, and those who offered their cars and other services.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Vanderhout and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of those who sent flowers, donated cars, or in any way helped during the illness and at the time of death of our husband and father, Mr. Willie M. Hartley. We also wish to thank Rev. E. O. Dickerson, Rev. T. E. Richardson, Rev. James Reckley and Rev. Hall for their words of sympathy and the Reckley families for the words of comfort in song.

Mrs. Willie M. Hartley & Children.

We take this opportunity to express our deepest thanks to all the neighbors and friends who aided and comforted us in our recent bereavement, the death of Floyd E. Vanderhout. We especially thank Rev. Fr. Kilkenney, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, for his comforting words, and also, the pallbearers, those who sent Mass cards and floral tributes, and those who offered their cars and other services.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Vanderhout and Family.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
Evelyn A. Hadra vs. William J. Hadra. No. 20,137 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.
The object of this suit is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Evelyn A. Hadra, A VINCULO MATRIMONII from William J. Hadra, the Defendant.
The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married in Cumberland, on February thirteenth, 1935, and that they lived together as man and wife until May twenty-sixth, 1947; that two children were born, namely William F. Hadra, eleven years of age, and Michael Hadra, four years of age. The Bill further states that the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery, and that the Complainant has not lived or cohabitted with the Defendant since she learned of his adulterous conduct, and that there is no possibility of reconciliation between the parties hereto; that up until May twenty-sixth, 1947, the said Defendant was a resident of the state of Maryland, but can not now be found. That the Complainant has been a resident of the state of Maryland for more than two years before the bringing of this suit but that the Defendant is now a non-resident of the state of Maryland.
It is thereupon this 24th day of July, 1947, ordered by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland sitting in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in Allegany County, once each week for four successive weeks, before the 25th day of August, giving notification to the Defendant of the object and substance of this suit, and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 10th day of September, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Clerk.

Assorted Favorites Continue Gains As Stock Market Enters New Month

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The stock market today entered the new month with assorted favorites establishing further good recoveries while many leaders backed water and dealings were among the slowest of the past several weeks.

While gains of fractions to a point or more predominated at the close, losers among pivotals were plentiful.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .1 of a point at 66.9, with the rails off a trifle and industrials and utilities a shade higher.

General Motors and Chrysler enjoyed a brief bulge when the former announced hoisted prices for its cars. General Motors emerged up one-fourth at 60⅞ and Chrysler off one-eighth at 59.

Among the year's peaks were Gulf Oil, up 1½ at 73½, and Joy Manufacturing, up seven-eighth at 38¾. United States Gypsum added two at 100½, Union Carbide 1½ at 106¾, American Chicle 1¼ at 55, duPont one at 192½, Johns-Manville one at 45 and Grumann Aircraft 1½ at 25½.

Modest plus signs were shown for Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, International Harvester, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, American Can, Texas Company, American Smelting, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

The bond market developed a modest amount of rising power today as investor demand was felt in the high priced brackets and enough speculative activity was at work in the secondary rails to keep trends on an even keel.

Prominent on the upswing but in some cases finishing under the day's best prices were Bethlehem Steel 2¾s, Celanese 3s, St. Paul 4s, Cincinnati Gas and Electric 2⅝s, Consolidated Edison 3½s, Consumers Power 2⅞s, Detroit Edison 3s, Koppers 3s, Louisville Gas and Electric 3½s, Katy Adjustment 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New Haven 3½s and 4s, Swift and Company 2⅝s and Wisconsin Central 4s.

Largest losers included Central of Georgia 5s, off 2½ at 53; Chicago Railways 5s, off 5¾ at 67½, and New York Dock 4s, off 1¼ at 101¼.

Activity was slow in United States governments in outside markets with changes negligible. Sales totaled $3,350,000 against $3,020,000 on Thursday.

Police Investigate Two Petty Thefts

Two petty thefts were reported to police yesterday, one involving the theft of $5 in change from the City Ice and Fuel Company, 38 North George Street sometime Thursday night or yesterday morning.

Police said the thief gained entrance to the place by breaking a small window in the rear of the office overlooking the loading platform. The money, according to police, was in a desk drawer in the office.

Perry Ritchie, 27 North Liberty Street, told police that a small electric sander, valued at $19.25 was stolen from a shed in the rear of 35 North Liberty Street. He explained that he last used the sander Monday and discovered that it was missing yesterday morning

Acting Chief of Police R. Emmet Flynn said both cases are being investigated.

Dr. William R. Bender of Hagerstown, and Dr. Homer E. Tabler of Hancock, were named in Washington county.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Evelyn A. Hadra vs. William J. Hadra. No. 20,137 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to secure the passage of a decree divorcing Evelyn A. Hadra, A VINCULO MATRIMONII from William J. Hadra, the Defendant.

The Bill of Complaint states that the couple were married in Cumberland, on February thirteenth, 1935, and that they lived together as man and wife until May twenty-sixth, 1947; that two children were born, namely William F. Hadra, eleven years of age, and Michael Hadra, four years of age. The Bill further states that the Defendant has committed the crime of adultery, and that the Complainant has not lived or cohabitted with the Defendant since she learned of his adulterous conduct, and that there is no possibility of reconciliation between the parties hereto; that up until May twenty-sixth, 1947, the said Defendant was a resident of the state of Maryland, but can not now be found. That the Complainant has been a resident of the state of Maryland for more than two years before the bringing of this suit but that the Defendant is now a non-resident of the state of Maryland.

It is thereupon this 24th day of July, 1947, ordered by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland sitting in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in one of the daily newspapers published in Allegany County, once each week for four successive weeks, before the 25th day of August, giving notification to the Defendant of the object and substance of this suit, and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 10th day of September, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

ROBERT JACKSON,
Clerk.

Assorted Favorites Continue Gains As Stock Market Enters New Month

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The stock market today entered the new month with assorted favorites establishing further good recoveries while many leaders backed water and dealings were among the slowest of the past several weeks.

While gains of fractions to a point or more predominated at the close, losers among pivotals were plentiful.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .1 of a point at 66.9, with the rails off a trifle and industrials and utilities a shade higher.

General Motors and Chrysler enjoyed a brief bulge when the former announced hoisted prices for its cars. General Motors emerged up one-fourth at 60⅞ and Chrysler off one-eighth at 59.

Among the year's peaks were Gulf Oil, up 1½ at 73½, and Joy Manufacturing, up seven-eighth at 38⅜. United States Gypsum added two at 100½, Union Carbide 1½ at 106⅜, American Chicle 1¼ at 55, duPont one at 192½, Johns-Manville one at 45 and Grumann Aircraft 1½ at 25½.

Modest plus signs were shown for Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth, International Harvester, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, American Can, Texas Company, American Smelting, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

The bond market developed a modest amount of rising power today as investor demand was felt in the high priced brackets and enough speculative activity was at work in the secondary rails to keep trends on an even keel.

Prominent on the upswing but in some cases finishing under the day's best prices were Bethlehem Steel 2⅝s, Celanese 3s, St. Paul 4s, Cincinnati Gas and Electric 2⅝s, Consolidated Edison 3½s, Consumers Power 2⅞s, Detroit Edison 3s, Koppers 3s, Louisville Gas and Electric 3½s, Katy Adjustment 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New Haven 3½s and 4s, Swift and Company 2⅝s and Wisconsin Central 4s.

Largest losers included Central of Georgia 5s, off 2½ at 53; Chicago Railways 5s, off 5¾ at 67½, and New York Dock 4s, off 1¼ at 101¼.

Activity was slow in United States governments in outside markets with changes negligible. Sales totaled $3,350,000 against $3,020,000 on Thursday.

Police Investigate Two Petty Thefts

Two petty thefts were reported to police yesterday, one involving the theft of $5 in change from the City Ice and Fuel Company, 38 North George Street sometime Thursday night or yesterday morning.

Police said the thief gained entrance to the place by breaking a small window in the rear of the office overlooking the loading platform. The money, according to police, was in a desk drawer in the office.

Perry Ritchie, 27 North Liberty Street, told police that a small electric sander, valued at $19.25 was stolen from a shed in the rear of 35 North Liberty Street. He explained that he last used the sander Monday and discovered that it was missing yesterday morning.

Acting Chief of Police R. Emmet Flynn said both cases are being investigated.

Dr. James T. Johnson, Jr., 16 Greene Street, and Dr. W. Oliver McLane, Jr., 167 East Main Street, Frostburg, have been named Maryland assistant medical examiners, according to W. D. Owens, state employment commissioner of Baltimore.

In Garrett county, Dr. E. Irving Baumgartner and Dr. James A. Gannon, Jr., both of Oakland, were appointed.

Dr. William R. Bender of Hagerstown, and Dr. Homer E. Tabler of Hancock, were named in Washington county.

Owens said the only duties of the examiners were to give prospective state employes physical examinations.

The school is sponsored jointly by the Maryland Supervisors, Assessors Association and the National Association of Assessing Officers, State Tax Commission and the State Department of Education. All of the supervisors and assessors in the 23 counties and Baltimore City will attend.

Nicholson, who is 1947 president of the National Association of Assessing Officers, is one of the instructors in the basic course in assessment procedure being given this year.

Jennings Man Admits Running Over Garrett Farmer

Asserts He Ran Over Elzie Layman To Get Revenge For "Punch In Face"

Garrett County officials were holding one of three brothers last night after he signed a confession, police said, admitting that he deliberately struck Elzie F. Layman, Shade Mills farmer, with a truck and left him dying on Route 40, six miles west of Frostburg, Wednesday night.

James William Hoover, 28, Jennings, who Trooper Blair Buckel identified as the driver of the ton and a half truck, said he intended only to knock Layman off the highway, but admitted that the right headlight of the truck struck the man as he walked along the road.

Three Brothers Arrested

Hoover, arrested along with two brothers, Albert Lee Hoover, 14, and Elmer Harry Hoover, 38, told police that his brothers warned him not to strike Layman when he explained his plan after leaving a beer tavern, where the three had argued with the victim.

State Police said Layman, who died in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, four hours after being admitted, was knocked down and run over with the truck owned by James Hoover, but the wheels did not touch him.

The three Hoover brothers admitted, police asserted, that they stopped the truck after striking Layman and went to examine him. James Hoover, the driver, said that after they saw Layman's condition they fled, police asserted.

William Payton, proprietor of the tavern, where the four men argued, told police that he asked the men to leave after Layman "threw a haymaker" at James Hoover but only grazed his face.

The four, according to police, left together. The Hoovers got into their truck, while Layman started walking up the highway. The driver admitted, police said, that he struck Layman with the truck about 100 feet from the tavern after his brothers asked him to avoid further trouble.

The three brothers, were taken to Garrett County jail Thursday night at 10 p. m. and then questioned yesterday for three hours before they finally admitted being in the truck that struck Layman, Trooper Buckel declared.

Youth Confesses First

According to police the youngest brother first confessed to the accident, and then James admitted driving the truck. He told police, they said, that he intended to sideswipe Layman but not kill him to get even for the haymaker he hit me with."

Police, who at first believed Layman was the victim of a hit-run driver, received their first clue in the case, when Payton informed a reporter that the four men had fought in the tavern before leaving.

Payton later gave the police the names of the three brothers, authorities said, and they arrested two of the men at the home of James Hoover, and the third at the mine of John Keister, Garrett County, where he was trying to get his pay for previous work.

Police said when they discovered the truck at James' home there were a few drops of blood on the right head light and a spot of blood on the right front fender. Authorities said they also found strands of hair on the front wheel axle that looked "very much" like Layman's.

Found Lying On Highway

Layman, who was discovered on the highway by three Webster, Pa., Boy Scouts, died of a pulmonary hemorrhage resulting from a punctured lung, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner of Allegany County, declared. Hospital attaches said the left side of Layman's body was covered with lacerations and bruises and added there was a cut a foot long in the left side of his back that exposed the spine.

During the questioning James Layman, according to police, at first stated that he struck Layman over the head with a rock, but later admitted that he lied and said he hit him with the truck.

State Police said State's Attorney Walter Dawson, of Garrett County, told them, he was going to hold Hoover for the Garrett County grand jury and let the jury decide what charges to prefer against the prisoner.

Garrett authorities said, however, that Hoover will be given a preliminary hearing this morning, and it is possible he will be charged with a state violation "only great enough" to hold him for grand jury action.

State police identified the prisoner as the same who was arrested several weeks ago on charges of stealing timber props which he was selling to coal mine operators.

Police said Hoover's two brothers were released from custody yesterday at 5:30 p. m. after all three signed confessions admitting their part in the crime.

Assisting Trooper Buckel in the investigation were Troopers Milton Hart and Glen Folk, Garrett County Deputy Sheriff Paul Fisher and State's Attorney Walter Dawson.

Issue Beer Permits

Two alcoholic beverage licenses were issued yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board. Class D Beer license was granted to Joyce Louise Jones, 245 Railroad Street, Westernport; and Class B Wine and Beer license was issued to Hazel K. Witt, Mt. Savage Road.

OLDEST RESIDENT—Shown above in her room at Memorial Hospital is Mrs. Lydia H. Hitchcock, the oldest resident in Allegany County and the oldest member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, who will observe her 104th birthday tomorrow. This will be the second birthday observance in the hospital for Mrs. Hitchcock, who has been a patient there since November, 1945.

Hospital Party Will Mark 104th Birthday Of Mrs. Lydia Hitchcock

Quiet Observance Planned Tomorrow

By MARY LOUISE BUZZELL

Room 320 in Memorial Hospital will be the scene of a memorable birthday party tomorrow afternoon, for Mrs. Lydia H. Hitchcock, the oldest resident of Allegany County and the oldest registered Democrat in the state, who will observe her 104th birthday at that time.

Although she has been a patient in the hospital since November 7, 1945, Mrs. Hitchcock has been in remarkably good health since that time, with the exception of a seven-week siege of pneumonia early in 1946.

Flowers and cards began arriving at the hospital yesterday, and Mrs. Hitchcock proudly wore an orchid corsage sent by the family physician.

Nurses To Attend

The quiet birthday observance will be held at 2 p. m., so that both special nurses, Mrs. John Robinette and Mrs. Everett Kight, will be able to attend. Mrs. Robinette has been nursing Mrs. Hitchcock since the latter was admitted to the hospital, and Mrs. Kight has served as the other special nurse for the past nine months.

Two cakes will be baked in honor of the occasion, one in the hospital kitchen and the other by a niece, Mrs. Lydia H. Sturtevant, Fayette Street.

Describing Mrs. Hitchcock's appetite as "marvelous," the nurses predicted that she will sample both cakes as well as the ice cream to be served with them.

During the past year Mrs. Hitchcock has gained about 10 pounds, and she is able to sit up in a chair occasionally. Twice in recent months she has been wheeled out to the third-floor porch overlooking the city.

Breakfast is her main meal of the day, and her tray usually contains cereal, eggs, fruit juice, toast and coffee. She likes soups and custards, but toast is her mealtime favorite.

As her chief diversion, Mrs. Hitchcock enjoys hearing her nurses read aloud from the Bible and from daily newspapers, maintaining an alert interest in current events. Although the nurses are willing to undertake almost any reading project they begged off recently when Mrs. Hitchcock asked to hear "Gone With The Wind" again.

Bishop Is Visitor

Last Christmas members of the family brought a radio to the hospital room so that Mrs. Hitchcock could listen to her favorite Christmas music. The oldest member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, she also enjoys listening to radio broadcasts of Sunday morning services in that church. One of her favorite visitors is Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Bishop of Maryland, who always calls on her when he comes to Cumberland.

A daughter of the late John J. and Sarah E. McKee Humbird, she was born in Cumberland August 3, 1843, and has resided here all her life, with the exception of the early years of her married life, when she traveled through the west with her husband, the late Luke H. Hitchcock, a civil engineer. Her father was mayor of Cumberland for four terms.

Becoming a widow at the age of 39, Mrs. Hitchcock returned to Cumberland and resided at 21 North Allegany Street until two years ago, when she made her home with her granddaughter, Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, Mt. Royal Avenue, for a short time before entering the hospital.

Voted Straight Ticket

Mrs. Hitchcock has voted the straight Democratic ticket in every election since women were granted suffrage in 1920. She voted for the late President Roosevelt in each presidential election from 1932 until 1944, the last year in which she went to the polls. Roosevelt sent her personal letters of congratula-

At a dinner meeting of the Western Maryland Sub-Chapter of the International Association of Public employment services held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club last night, Edwin Harlan, director of the Maryland Classified Employes Association, spoke of the advantages of his organization to the public workers of the state.

In outlining the principles of his group, Harlan stated that 3,000 state employes now belong to the Classified Employes which is 60 per cent of all Maryland office workers.

At the meeting the Western Maryland Sub-Chapter named Patrick J. Carroll as temporary chairman to discuss with other employment offices as to the possibility of joining the association.

Among those present were Fred B. Gambrill, field supervisor of the Maryland State Employment Service; Paul Shilling, manager of the Hagerstown office; Milburn Mann, manager of the Oakland office, and Garel Cannon, manager of the Oakland office.

The constitution and by-laws of the Western Maryland group were accepted at a meeting held at the local employment office yesterday at 4 p. m. Edward Matthews gave a preview of the International Association convention to be held in New York.

Kelly And Union Slated To Reach Agreement Today

Membership Meeting To Be Held Tomorrow

E. A. Johnson, president of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, reported last night that the union's negotiating committee expects to reach an agreement with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company today on changes in the union's contract.

Final action on the contract proposals may be taken at a meeting of the membership to be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the union hall.

Union officials reported the negotiating committee held a lengthy session last night with the executive board to review in detail the contract as it stood at the end of yesterday's session.

Johnson said the action taken by the executive board, which he said has recommended some parts of the report, will be presented to the members at the meeting tomorrow, along with the result of today's session.

Harley V. Brown, URCLPWA representative, who has been assisting in the last few contract sessions, will be present for today's discussions.

The Kelly local began negotiations about six weeks ago on some 19 suggested amendments to its working agreement.

During the last few meetings, Johnson reported, three main issues have been under discussion. He listed the issues as severance pay, vacations and the furlough clause, including the reduction of hours of work before furlough may be placed into effect at the Kelly plant.

The present contract, amended from time to time, has been in effect since 1941. The agreements may be amended by mutual consent during the life of the contract and are usually subject to thorough revisions yearly.

WAITING—Shown here is part of the crowd of grim men and boys, mostly miners and sons of miners, looking toward the black pit of Connor Mine on Jackson Hill where rescue teams had gone yesterday to dig for Charles Carlyle Connor, 41, 4 Dudley Street, Lonaconing. Connor was trapped behind a heavy fall of coal and rock. Three hours after the mine accident occurred, the body was recovered, and the medical examiner reported death due to suffocation. The mine is an old working and was being privately leased and operated by Connor, his brother Henry Connor and James Nightingale.

Kelley To Seek Jones Release On Habeas Corpus

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus will be filed in Circuit Court today by Estel C. Kelley, attorney for James Jones, of Cleveland, Ohio, and formerly of this city, in an effort to obtain the man's release from Allegany County Jail.

Kelley said last night that Jones, a negro paper hanger and painter, was returned here on extradition from Cleveland on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife through Juvenile Court here.

Jones was given a hearing before Juvenile Court Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem on Thursday and sentenced to serve 60 days in the County Jail. Jones took an appeal and furnished $1,000 bond, through a former local employer.

Kelley stated that another warrant was issued for Jones by Magistrate Stakem on the same day, and on the same charge by the same people. Jones was returned to jail and was given a second hearing by Stakem, and this time was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Kelley said the proceeding seems a little unusual, and when he told Stakem that he had issued a second warrant on the same day that Jones had been sentenced, Kelley declares Stakem amended his papers to read 31st instad of the 30th.

A number of attorneys and other county officials discussed the case yesterday, and Kelley said he has decided to test the whole affair in Circuit Court, by filing the habeas corpus action. "The man can't very well pay anybody if he is kept in jail," Kelley said.

Women To Sponsor Farmerette Contest On August 20

The Allegany county contestant for the "Miss Maryland 1947 Farmerette," title sponsored by the Associated Women of the Farm Bureau will be selected August 20, Mrs. Lloyd B. Shaw, president, announces. The judging will be held at 2 o'clock in the exhibition hall at the fair grounds.

Enrollments in the contest are being taken now by Mrs. Shaw, Moscow Mills, and Miss Gloria Bohn, court house, city. No more will be accepted after August 18.

Fifty percent of the scoring will be based on the farmerette's qualifications in home economics, 4-H Club, home activities, clothing, household duties, farm activities, including the care of kitchen garden, flower garden, lawn, poultry, dairy work, and field or orchard work, and for "what have you done to earn money or add to the family income for the year?" The other 50 percent will be based on personality, costume, poise, manner and general appearance.

The contest is open to all unmarried farm girls from 16 through 18 years of age, and contestants must maintain a permanent home on the farm though she may be working in town or in college.

The county winner, to be known as "Miss Allegany 1947 Farmerette," will participate in the state contest for Miss Maryland to be held at Timonium on August 30.

All entrants will be given a prize and the one going to Timonium will receive a special prize and her expenses to Timonium.

PHOTOGENIC—Snapped at the Celanese Pool, Jean Dixon, who will appear as "Miss Cumberland" in the Miss Maryland Beauty Pageant Monday night at 8:30 at Fort Hill High School, is considered very photogenic by Keith Sisk, well known local photographer who took the above picture. Three years ago, Sisk, who was recently named chief photographer for an expedition to the Mountains of the Moon in Africa after competing in a contest sponsored by a magazine, won four first prizes in a photography contest — and Jean Dixon was the model for all four prize-winning prints. "If Jean can display her personality to the pageant judges as well as she does to the eye of the camera, her chances will be very good in that part of the competition," Sisk said yesterday. The photographer also remarked that it is unlikely that he will find any scenery in Africa to equal that which will be on hand for the Miss Maryland Pageant Monday night.

MINE VICTIM—Charles Carlysle Connor, 41, life-long resident of 4 Dudley Street, Lonaconing, died of suffocation yesterday morning, after being trapped behind a fall of coal and rock in the Connor Mine on Jackson Hill, Lonaconing, where he had worked for the past nine years with his brother Henry Connor and James Nightingale. More than a score of miners from neighboring operations worked for three hours in an effort to reach their trapped friend and neighbor before he succumbed. Mine inspectors said this was the first coal mine fatality in this county this year.

Court Upholds Liquor Board In Legion Appeal

Circuit Court judges yesterday upheld the decision of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board in refusing Arthur Arnone Post American Legion at Eckhart a Class C. liquor license.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson presided at the hearing, the first case in which an action of the Liquor Board has been appealed to the Court.

The court held that the Board acted within its discretion in refusing the club license to the Legion organization at the location of the post home, and that its decision was not arbitrary.

Thomas B. Finan, Jr., and Leslie Clark, attorneys for the Legion stated that the board was arbitrary in deciding the case and that the location of the club rooms did not constitute a traffic hazard and also that the remonstrants to issuance of the license included some signers of the petition who lived as far away as Grantsville and Clarysville.

The proximity of a church to the Legion home was another point which the Legion attorneys contended did not constitute a reason for denying of the license. The court held, however, that the liquor board had the power to decide this question. In Cumberland or some of the larger towns in the county the nearness of a church did not enter into the situation in the same manner as in a more rural community, the court pointed out.

The court's decision was not a reflection on the Legion post, but only on the location of the premises as compared to a church diagonally across the road. Before the court allowed the hearing to start Judge Henderson stated that the court must be careful of the decision in this instance as it was the first appeal from the liquor board and precedents would be established for any future cases.

Former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, who along with William A. Gunter represented the Methodist and Baptist churches of Eckhart in the hearing, stated that the Legion club had only 90 members and "they can't support the club in liquor sales and at the same time support their families". Dues are only $3 per year for members and that would bring in $270 per year, Sloan stated.

"They would have to depend on the public for support", he stated.

Police Take Local Child To Sanitarium

Maryland State Police yesterday rushed 4-months-old Patricia Wilson to the Eudowood Sanitarium, Townson, Md., after a local physician said the child was suffering from "primary active" tuberculosis.

Police said the child was removed from its home and taken to the sanitarium in an effort to save its life. Authorities said they were informed that the child's father is already a patient in a Maryland sanitarium, where he is receiving treatment for the same disease.

YMCA camp leader' emblems were presented to the three counselors, Patty Bowie, George Leyh and Marcellus Chaney. A watermelon feast for the winning team in the camp softball league was held after the program. Chaney was in charge of arrangements.

A highlight of the entertainment was the presentation of a mock wedding, staged by nine of the boy campers and two counselors. Timothy Stein, as the bride, was dressed in traditional bridal costume, and was escorted by William Shuck, who as the bride's father was clad in dungarees and carried a shotgun.

Others taking part, all in costume, were David Steele, Jr., as the bridegroom; Marcellus Chaney as the minister; Ronald Lease as the flower girl; Orville Cosgrove, who played the rejected suitor and wept copiously into a handkerchief throughout the ceremony; Hugh Steele as the best man; Howard Davis as maid of honr; George Leyh as an usher, and John Sandbower, who was cast as the aunt of the bride. Bobby Payne played the aunt's infant son.

Musical features included a vocal solo by Shirley Frazier, who also sang a duet with Catherine Reissig. The latter did a tap dance, with piano accompaniments by Doris Twigg, a member of the YMCA clerical staff. George Leyh played a baritone horn solo.

Handicraft work completed by the campers and placed on display included leather moccasins and belts, comb cases, whatnot shelves and fibre footstools.

Charles Connor Suffocates After He Is Trapped In Mine At Coney

His Brother, Henry, And James Nightingale Escape From Falling Coal And Rock

Charles Carlyle Connor, 41, 4 Dudley Street, Lonaconing, was trapped in a fall of coal and rock, in the Connor Mine on Jackson Hill near his home yesterday at about 8:30 a. m. and according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, died of suffocation before he could be rescued.

Twenty-five volunteer miners from nearby pits, worked in relays for three hours in an attempt to reach Connor, who had been working in an old place with two other men.

Frank Powers, Frostburg, and Clyde Rowe, Westernport, district state mine inspectors directed rescue efforts. The mine is an old "big vein" operation, in Rowe's district and was inspected recently. Miners in the area said the operation is "as safe as these old workings can be."

Mine Bureau Chief Present

Dr. J. J. Rutledge, Baltimore, chief of the Maryland Bureau of Mines was also at the scene, and several score residents of the community waited outside the pit for word from inside. Dr. Rutledge had been driving through the region with Powers and as they drove along Main Street in the town, someone hailed Powers and told him of the accident. They went immediately to the scene.

The mine is located on the old Jackson property and the coal is owned by the American Coal Company of Allegany County, headquarters, Bluefield, W. Va. The operation, a big vein of high grade coal, was leased March 5, 1939, and operated since, by Charles Connor, his brother Henry Connor and James Nightingale, a member of the town council.

Only the three men worked in the pit, and all three went to work yesterday morning. About 8:30 a. m. according to Henry Connor and Nightingale, Charles Connor was working about 20 feet from them. "He was robbing the top," an expression miners use for taking loose coal from the top of the pile. A large lump of coal rolled down, struck a brace which broke loose and knocked out a timber, and coal, slag and rock came down in tons, to trap Connor.

Body Is Recovered

His brother and Nightingale managed to run clear, and one of them went immediately for help, while the other began the task of rescue.

The body was recovered at about 11:30 a. m., in a "doubled-up, almost sitting position," a few feet from where the fall began. It was removed to Eichhorn's in the firm's ambulance.

Dr. Deming said Connor suffered slight abrasions over the shoulders and back and two fractured ribs on the right side, but death was due to suffocation, he added.

Miners said the three men have been operating the mine successfully for some time, and produced a large amount of coal from the old operation. They were "taking out stumps," regarded as a dangerout task at best, and involving the job of removing coal left when the mine was originally worked.

Miners who aided in the rescue effort were from the operations of James E. Darrow, the Waddell Coal Company, and Beall and Shockey. Connor had been previously employed in the Darrow operation.

Was Son's Birthday

At the Connor home, the same house where the victim was born and lived all his lifetime, the family waited. It was meant to be a happy day there, because it was the 15th birthday of Ronnie Charles Connor, the mine victim's only son.

Connor is also survived by three daughters, Mrs. Mary Margaret Contino, Columbia, S. C.; Verna Elsie and Jo Ann at home; his widow, Mrs. Mary Virginia Elkins Connor; three brothers, Henry Connor, and Robert Connor both of Lonaconing, and William H. Connor, this city; and two sisters, Mrs. Ruth G. McElfish, and Mrs. Margaret Wilson, both of Baltimore Pike, this city.

Connor was a son of the late Charles William and Anna Hausman Connor, and was born at Lonaconing November 10, 1906. He was a member of the Lonaconing Methorist Church and Local No. 2835, United Mine Workers of America.

Jennings Man Admits Running Over Garrett Farmer

Asserts He Ran Over Elzie Layman To Get Revenge For "Punch In Face"

Garrett County officials were holding one of three brothers last night after he signed a confession, police said, admitting that he deliberately struck Elzie F. Layman, Shade Mills farmer, with a truck and left him dying on Route 40, six miles west of Frostburg, Wednesday night.

James William Hoover, 28, Jennings, who Trooper Blair Buckel identified as the driver of the ton and a half truck, said he intended only to knock Layman off the highway, but admitted that the right headlight of the truck struck the man as he walked along the road.

Three Brothers Arrested

Hoover, arrested along with two brothers, Albert Lee Hoover, 14, and Elmer Harry Hoover, 38, told police that his brothers warned him not to strike Layman when he explained his plan after leaving a beer tavern, where the three had argued with the victim.

State Police said Layman, who died in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, four hours after being admitted, was knocked down and run over with the truck owned by James Hoover, but the wheels did not touch him.

The three Hoover brothers admitted, police asserted, that they stopped the truck after striking Layman and went to examine him. James Hoover, the driver, said that after they saw Layman's condition they fled, police asserted.

William Payton, proprietor of the tavern, where the four men argued, told police that he asked the men to leave after Layman "threw a haymaker" at James Hoover but only grazed his face.

The four, according to police, left together. The Hoovers got into their truck, while Layman started walking up the highway. The driver admitted, police said, that he struck Layman with the truck about 100 feet from the tavern after his brothers asked him to avoid further trouble.

The three brothers, were taken to Garrett County jail Thursday night at 10 p. m. and then questioned yesterday for three hours before they finally admitted being in the truck that struck Layman, Trooper Buckel declared.

Youth Confesses First

According to police the youngest brother first confessed to the accident, and then James admitted driving the truck. He told police, they said, that he intended to sideswipe Layman but not kill him to get even for the haymaker he hit me with."

Police, who at first believed Layman was the victim of a hit-run driver, received their first clue in the case, when Payton informed a reporter that the four men had fought in the tavern before leaving.

Payton later gave the police the names of the three brothers, authorities said, and they arrested two of the men at the home of James Hoover, and the third at the mine of John Keister, Garrett County, where he was trying to get his pay for previous work.

Police said when they discovered the truck at James' home there were a few drops of blood on the right head light and a spot of blood on the right front fender. Authorities said they also found strands of hair on the front wheel axle that looked "very much" like Layman's.

Found Lying On Highway

Layman, who was discovered on the highway by three Webster, Pa., Boy Scouts, died of a pulmonary hemorrhage resulting from a punctured lung, Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner of Allegany County, declared. Hospital attaches said the left side of Layman's body was covered with lacerations and bruises and added there was a cut a foot long in the left side of his back that exposed the spine.

During the questioning James Layman, according to police, at first stated that he struck Layman over the head with a rock, but later admitted that he lied and said he hit him with the truck.

State Police said State's Attorney Walter Dawson, of Garrett County, told them, he was going to hold Hoover for the Garrett County grand jury and let the jury decide what charges to prefer against the prisoner.

Garrett authorities said, however, that Hoover will be given a preliminary hearing this morning, and it is possible he will be charged with a state violation "only great enough" to hold him for grand jury action.

State police identified the prisoner as the same who was arrested several weeks ago on charges of stealing timber props which he was selling to coal mine operators.

Police said Hoover's two brothers were released from custody yesterday at 5:30 p. m. after all three signed confessions admitting their part in the crime.

Assisting Trooper Buckel in the investigation were Troopers Milton Hart and Glen Folk, Garrett County Deputy Sheriff Paul Fisher and State's Attorney Walter Dawson.

OLDEST RESIDENT—Shown above in her room at Memorial Hospital is Mrs. Lydia H. Hitchcock, the oldest resident in Allegany County and the oldest member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, who will observe her 104th birthday tomorrow. This will be the second birthday observance in the hospital for Mrs. Hitchcock, who has been a patient there since November, 1945.

Hospital Party Will Mark 104th Birthday Of Mrs. Lydia Hitchcock

By MARY LOUISE BUZZELL

Room 320 in Memorial Hospital will be the scene of a memorable birthday party tomorrow afternoon, for Mrs. Lydia H. Hitchcock, the oldest resident of Allegany County and the oldest registered Democrat in the state, who will observe her 104th birthday at that time.

Although she has been a patient in the hospital since November 7, 1945, Mrs. Hitchcock has been in remarkably good health since that time, with the exception of a seven-week siege of pneumonia early in 1946.

Flowers and cards began arriving at the hospital yesterday, and Mrs. Hitchcock proudly wore an orchid corsage sent by the family physician.

Nurses To Attend

The quiet birthday observance will be held at 2 p. m., so that both special nurses, Mrs. John Robinette and Mrs. Everett Kight, will be able to attend. Mrs. Robinette has been nursing Mrs. Hitchcock since the latter was admitted to the hospital, and Mrs. Kight has served as the other special nurse for the past nine months.

Two cakes will be baked in honor of the occasion, one in the hospital kitchen and the other by a niece, Mrs. Lydia H. Sturtevant, Fayette Street.

Describing Mrs. Hitchcock's appetite as "marvelous," the nurses predicted that she will sample both cakes as well as the ice cream to be served with them.

During the past year Mrs. Hitchcock has gained about 10 pounds, and she is able to sit up in a chair occasionally. Twice in recent months she has been wheeled out to the third-floor porch overlooking the city.

Breakfast is her main meal of the day, and her tray usually contains cereal, eggs, fruit juice, toast and coffee. She likes soups and custards, but toast is her mealtime favorite.

As her chief diversion, Mrs. Hitchcock enjoys hearing her nurses read aloud from the Bible and from daily newspapers, maintaining an alert interest in current events. Although the nurses are willing to undertake almost any reading project they begged off recently when Mrs. Hitchcock asked to hear "Gone With The Wind" again.

Bishop Is Visitor

Last Christmas members of the family brought a radio to the hospital room so that Mrs. Hitchcock could listen to her favorite Christmas music. The oldest member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, she also enjoys listening to radio broadcasts of Sunday morning services in that church. One of her favorite visitors is Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Bishop of Maryland, who always calls on her when he comes to Cumberland.

A daughter of the late John J. and Sarah E. McKee Humbird, she was born in Cumberland August 3, 1843, and has resided here all her life, with the exception of the early years of her married life, when she traveled through the west with her husband, the late Luke H. Hitchcock, a civil engineer. Her father was mayor of Cumberland for four terms.

Becoming a widow at the age of 39, Mrs. Hitchcock returned to Cumberland and resided at 21 North Allegany Street until two years ago, when she made her home with her granddaughter, Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, Mt. Royal Avenue, for a short time before entering the hospital.

Voted Straight Ticket

Mrs. Hitchcock has voted the straight Democratic ticket in every election since women were granted suffrage in 1920. Kelly And Union Slated To Reach Agreement Today

Membership Meeting To Be Held Tomorrow

E. A. Johnson, president of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, reported last night that the union's negotiating committee expects to reach an agreement with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company today on changes in the union's contract.

Final action on the contract proposals may be taken at a meeting of the membership to be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the union hall.

Union officials reported the negotiating committee held a lengthy session last night with the executive board to review in detail the contract as it stood at the end of yesterday's session.

Johnson said the action taken by the executive board, which he said has recommended some parts of the report, will be presented to the members at the meeting tomorrow, along with the result of today's session.

Harley V. Brown, URCLPWA representative, who has been assisting in the last few contract sessions, will be present for today's discussions.

The Kelly local began negotiations about six weeks ago on some 19 suggested amendments to its working agreement.

During the last few meetings, Johnson reported, three main issues have been under discussion. He listed the issues as severance pay, vacations and the furlough clause, including the reduction of hours of work before furlough may be placed into effect at the Kelly plant.

The present contract, amended from time to time, has been in effect since 1941. The agreements may be amended by mutual consent during the life of the contract and are usually subject to thorough revisions yearly.

Kelley To Seek Jones Release On Habeas Corpus

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus will be filed in Circuit Court today by Estel C. Kelley, attorney for James Jones, of Cleveland, Ohio, and formerly of this city, in an effort to obtain the man's release from Allegany County Jail.

Kelley said last night that Jones, a negro paper hanger and painter, was returned here on extradition from Cleveland on a charge of non-support preferred by his wife through Juvenile Court here.

Jones was given a hearing before Juvenile Court Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem on Thursday and sentenced to serve 60 days in the County Jail. Jones took an appeal and furnished $1,000 bond, through a former local employer.

Kelley stated that another warrant was issued for Jones by Magistrate Stakem on the same day, and on the same charge by the same people. Jones was returned to jail and was given a second hearing by Stakem, and this time was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Kelley said the proceeding seems a little unusual, and when he told Stakem that he had issued a second warrant on the same day that Jones had been sentenced, Kelley declares Stakem amended his papers to read 31st instad of the 30th.

A number of attorneys and other county officials discussed the case yesterday, and Kelley said he has decided to test the whole affair in Circuit Court, by filing the habeas corpus action. "The man can't very well pay anybody if he is kept in jail," Kelley said.

Women To Sponsor Farmerette Contest On August 20

The Allegany county contestant for the "Miss Maryland 1947 Farmerette," title sponsored by the Associated Women of the Farm Bureau will be selected August 20, Mrs. Lloyd B. Shaw, president, announces. The judging will be held at 2 o'clock in the exhibition hall at the fair grounds.

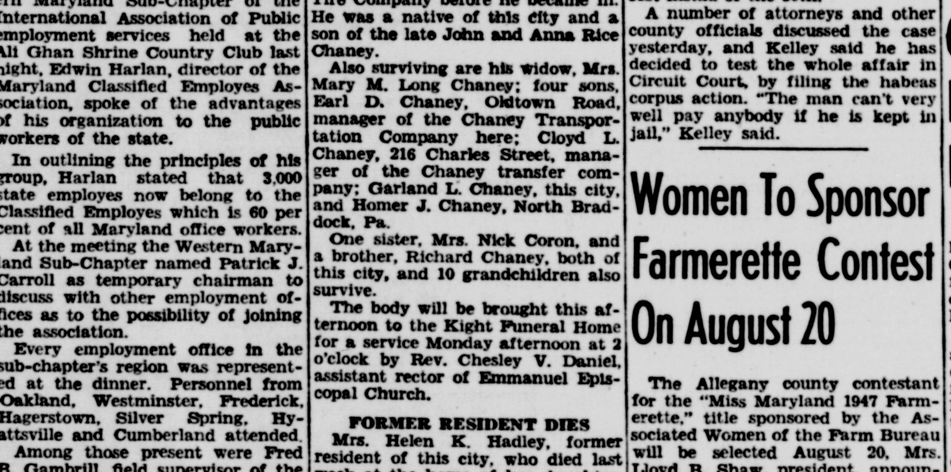

Enrollments in the contest are being taken now by Mrs. Shaw, Moscow Mills, and Miss Gloria Bohn, court house, city. No more will be accepted after August 18.

Fifty percent of the scoring will be based on the farmerette's qualifications in home economics, 4-H Club, home activities, clothing, household duties, farm activities, including the care of kitchen garden, flower garden, lawn, poultry, dairy work, and field or orchard work, and for "what have you done to earn money or add to the family income for the year?" The other 50 percent will be based on personality, costume, poise, manner and general appearance.

The contest is open to all unmarried farm girls from 16 through 18 years of age, and contestants must maintain a permanent home on the farm though she may be working in town or in college.

The county winner, to be known as "Miss Allegany 1947 Farmerette," will participate in the state contest for Miss Maryland to be held at Timonium on August 30.

All entrants will be given a prize and the one going to Timonium will receive a special prize and her expenses to Timonium.

PHOTOGENIC—Snapped at the Celanese Pool, Jean Dixon, who will appear as "Miss Cumberland" in the Miss Maryland Beauty Pageant Monday night at 8:30 at Fort Hill High School, is considered very photogenic by Keith Sisk, well known local photographer who took the above picture. Three years ago, Sisk, who was recently named chief photographer for an expedition to the Mountains of the Moon in Africa after competing in a contest sponsored by a magazine, won four first prizes in a photography contest — and Jean Dixon was the model for all four prize-winning prints. "If Jean can display her personality to the pageant judges as well as she does to the eye of the camera, her chances will be very good in that part of the competition," Sisk said yesterday. The photographer also remarked that it is unlikely that he will find any scenery in Africa to equal that which will be on hand for the Miss Maryland Pageant Monday night.

MINE VICTIM—Charles Carlysle Connor, 41, life-long resident of 4 Dudley Street, Lonaconing, died of suffocation yesterday morning, after being trapped behind a fall of coal and rock in the Connor Mine on Jackson Hill, Lonaconing, where he had worked for the past nine years with his brother Henry Connor and James Nightingale. More than a score of miners from neighboring operations worked for three hours in an effort to reach their trapped friend and neighbor before he succumbed. Mine inspectors said this was the first coal mine fatality in this county this year.

Court Upholds Liquor Board In Legion Appeal

Circuit Court judges yesterday upheld the decision of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board in refusing Arthur Arnone Post American Legion at Eckhart a Class C. liquor license.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson presided at the hearing, the first case in which an action of the Liquor Board has been appealed to the Court.

The court held that the Board acted within its discretion in refusing the club license to the Legion organization at the location of the post home, and that its decision was not arbitrary.

Thomas B. Finan, Jr., and Leslie Clark, attorneys for the Legion stated that the board was arbitrary in deciding the case and that the location of the club rooms did not constitute a traffic hazard and also that the remonstrants to issuance of the license included some signers of the petition who lived as far away as Grantsville and Clarysville.

The proximity of a church to the Legion home was another point which the Legion attorneys contended did not constitute a reason for denying of the license. The court held, however, that the liquor board had the power to decide this question. In Cumberland or some of the larger towns in the county the nearness of a church did not enter into the situation in the same manner as in a more rural community, the court pointed out.

The court's decision was not a reflection on the Legion post, but only on the location of the premises as compared to a church diagonally across the road. Before the court allowed the hearing to start Judge Henderson stated that the court must be careful of the decision in this instance as it was the first appeal from the liquor board and precedents would be established for any future cases.

Former Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan, who along with William A. Gunter represented the Methodist and Baptist churches of Eckhart in the hearing, stated that the Legion club had only 90 members and "they can't support the club in liquor sales and at the same time support their families". Dues are only $3 per year for members and that would bring in $270 per year, Sloan stated.

"They would have to depend on the public for support", he stated.

Charles Connor Suffocates After He Is Trapped In Mine At Coney

His Brother, Henry, And James Nightingale Escape From Falling Coal And Rock

Charles Carlyle Connor, 41, 4 Dudley Street, Lonaconing, was trapped in a fall of coal and rock, in the Connor Mine on Jackson Hill near his home yesterday at about 8:30 a. m. and according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, died of suffocation before he could be rescued.

Twenty-five volunteer miners from nearby pits, worked in relays for three hours in an attempt to reach Connor, who had been working in an old place with two other men.

Frank Powers, Frostburg, and Clyde Rowe, Westernport, district state mine inspectors directed rescue efforts. The mine is an old "big vein" operation, in Rowe's district and was inspected recently. Miners in the area said the operation is "as safe as these old workings can be."

Mine Bureau Chief Present

Dr. J. J. Rutledge, Baltimore, chief of the Maryland Bureau of Mines was also at the scene, and several score residents of the community waited outside the pit for word from inside. Dr. Rutledge had been driving through the region with Powers and as they drove along Main Street in the town, someone hailed Powers and told him of the accident. They went immediately to the scene.

The mine is located on the old Jackson property and the coal is owned by the American Coal Company of Allegany County, headquarters, Bluefield, W. Va. The operation, a big vein of high grade coal, was leased March 5, 1939, and operated since, by Charles Connor, his brother Henry Connor and James Nightingale, a member of the town council.

Only the three men worked in the pit, and all three went to work yesterday morning. About 8:30 a. m. according to Henry Connor and Nightingale, Charles Connor was working about 20 feet from them. "He was robbing the top," an expression miners use for taking loose coal from the top of the pile. A large lump of coal rolled down, struck a brace which broke loose and knocked out a timber, and coal, slag and rock came down in tons, to trap Connor.

Body Is Recovered

His brother and Nightingale managed to run clear, and one of them went immediately for help, while the other began the task of rescue.

The body was recovered at about 11:30 a. m., in a "doubled-up, almost sitting position," a few feet from where the fall began. It was removed to Eichhorn's in the firm's ambulance.

Dr. Deming said Connor suffered slight abrasions over the shoulders and back and two fractured ribs on the right side, but death was due to suffocation, he added.

Miners said the three men have been operating the mine successfully for some time, and produced a large amount of coal from the old operation. They were "taking out stumps," regarded as a dangerout task at best, and involving the job of removing coal left when the mine was originally worked.

Miners who aided in the rescue effort were from the operations of James E. Darrow, the Waddell Coal Company, and Beall and Shockey. Connor had been previously employed in the Darrow operation.

Was Son's Birthday

At the Connor home, the same house where the victim was born and lived all his lifetime, the family waited. It was meant to be a happy day there, because it was the 15th birthday of Ronnie Charles Connor, the mine victim's only son.

Connor is also survived by three daughters, Mrs. Mary Margaret Contino, Columbia, S. C.; Verna Elsie and Jo Ann at home; his widow, Mrs. Mary Virginia Elkins Connor; three brothers, Henry Connor, and Robert Connor both of Lonaconing, and William H. Connor, this city; and two sisters, Mrs. Ruth G. McElfish, and Mrs. Margaret Wilson, both of Baltimore Pike, this city.

Connor was a son of the late Charles William and Anna Hausman Connor, and was born at Lonaconing November 10, 1906. He was a member of the Lonaconing Methorist Church and Local No. 2835, United Mine Workers of America.
